Election Inspectors Instructed to Call at Clerk's Office Between 10
and 2:30

EACH WILL HAVE A BIG LOAD

Supplies Will be Heavier Because of
More Voters—Breakfast Will
Not be Served

Election supplies and the state ballots have been delivered in this city to county Clerk Loren Martin, and the next day or so will be strenuous work on his part in getting ready for the distribution of the supplies to the different precincts, so that everything will be ready for their disposal to the election inspectors on Saturday.

With each precinct having almost double the number of voters, it means that the election inspector will have his hands full when he takes charge of the necessary articles Saturday. For an example, the largest precinct in Rushville and the county is number 1, which has 561 persons registered. When the inspector from this precinct calls Saturday for his supplies, he will take away with him:

Over 700 state and 700 county ballots, which is one-fourth more than the number of registered voters, and will weigh approximately 17 pounds.

Two bottles of ink. (The cork generally comes out before the inspector reaches his destination.)

All of the original applications for registration, which will weigh four or five pounds.

The two precinct registration books, each about three feet square.

A large roll of instructions to voters, and a box containing election supplies, including roll sheets, tally papers, blank affidavits, certificates of election, pencils, pens and blotters. This box weighs several pounds.

Inspectors are required to call at the office of the county clerk on Saturday between the hours of 10 a. m., and 2:30 in the afternoon. Those who fail to call at the court house between those hours on the day designated, can be penalized.

Township trustees, by virtue of their office, must serve as the inspector of the precinct in which he resides. Under the law inspectors shall receive $12 per day for their

BRYAN URGES VOTE FOR SENATOR WATSON

Also Recommends Re-Election of
Rep. R. N. Elliott Because of

SAYS DRY MUST STAND PAT

William J. Bryan recommends the re-election of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana and of Congressman Richard N. Elliott of the sixth Indiana district, because of their records on the wet and dry question, in an article in the American Issue, the national organ of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Bryan urges that dries everywhere disregard political affiliations and party names in any contest between a wet and dry candidate for the house or senate.

"No dry democrat or republican can afford to be less interested in the home than the wets are in the saloon," he said. "Party lines do not divide the wets. They unite on the wet candidate regardless of the party; that is why politicians are more afraid of the wet vote than of the dry vote."

"Even in the senatorial contests the attitude of the candidate on the liquor question can not be ignored. While the parties have put the treaty question to the front, everyone knows that neither party can hope to have within five votes of a two-thirds majority within that body. But a majority is enough to pass an ordinary bill and therefore a majority can repeal or weaken the Volstead act."

HEART FAILURE DEATH CAUSE

Verdict of The Inquest of Remains
of Terence MacSwiney

(By United Press)

London, Oct. 27.—Terence MacSwiney died of heart failure according to the verdict of the inquest held over the remains of the Irish hunger striker.

A dilated heart, acute delirium and scurvy due to exhaustion when he refused to eat, brought death, according to the inquest held.

Following the inquest the body of MacSwiney was conveyed from the mortuary to St. Georges Cathedral where it will lie in state until 11 a. m. when mass will be celebrated by Arch Bishop Mannix and Bishop Carter.

SISTER BERTRAND DIES IN HOSPITAL

Member of Oldenburg Convent, Formerly Mary Joyce of This City, Expires

FUNERAL THURSDAY, 6 A. M.

Relatives here received word this morning of the death of Sister Bertrand, who was formerly Miss Mary Joyce of this city, and the local relatives will attend the funeral in the morning at six o'clock at Oldenburg, where the deceased was a member of the convent.

Sister Bertrand was born and reared in this county and joined the convent 26 years ago, being 61 years of age at the time of her death. In recent months she was taken ill and underwent two serious operations at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati. About a week ago relatives were called to Cincinnati where she was in a serious condition waiting to undergo a further operation. It is presumed that she expired at the Cincinnati hospital, and it is not known whether she had undergone the operation or not.

The deceased is survived by the following brothers in this city: William B. Joyce, Thomas Joyce and John Joyce; Henry Joyce of Kokomo and a sister, Mrs. Ed Runyan of Muncie. The funeral services will be held at six o'clock, according to the custom at the Oldenburg convent.

PASTOR NAMED FOR 1ST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Rev. Reno Tacoma of Muncie
Accepts Call Extended by Local Congregation

PREACHED HERE LAST SUNDAY

The Rev. Reno Tacoma of Muncie has accepted the call extended to him by the members of the congregation of the First Baptist church of this city, and he will take up his new pastorate here about the first of December.

The new minister comes here highly recommended from Muncie, where he has been pastor of the Walnut Street First Baptist church for five years. He also made a favorable impression on the local congregation last Sunday, when he delivered his trial sermon.

The church has been without a regular minister since the middle of June, when the Rev. C. J. Bunnell left here to take up a similar charge at Burnettsville, Ind., where he had previously held the charge.

It is expected that the Rev. Mr. Tacoma will be here about December 9, and will take charge immediately following.

FALLS ON STREET

George Gray, a farmer living east of this city, fell unconscious on the street in front of the People's National Bank, shortly after two o'clock this afternoon, and was later removed to his home, after he had regained consciousness. It was not learned what caused his sudden illness.

Monday, November 1

Rushville, 2 p. m.—Senator James E. Watson at the coliseum. Parade leaves public square at 1:30.

The drive for votes in this county will continue unabated until the very end of the campaign, which will be closed by the republicans Monday afternoon with an address by Senator James E. Watson at the coliseum and by the democrats with a Saturday night meeting at the coliseum, to be addressed by Mrs. De Marchus H. Brown and Fred Van Nuys of Indianapolis.

The democrats have scheduled one meeting for next Monday night outside of Rushville and another one being arranged for, it is announced but the republicans will close their bombardment of oratory with the Watson speech.

The republicans are centering their efforts on making the Watson meeting the biggest of the campaign because they count it a privilege to get him when there has been such a big demand for his appearance in the state. He has been making five or six speeches a day and will continue to do so until the eve of the election, when he will close the campaign at Newcastle.

Republican meetings will be held tonight at Milroy, Manilla and Glenwood and there was a meeting this afternoon at Butler school, Richland township, for the instruction of women voters. Practically every community in the county will be invaded by the republicans this week in their final drive.

Much emphasis has also been placed on the republican speaking at the Second M. E. church Thursday night and the court room meeting Friday night, when John McCardle

Jennie O. Scott Sues Thomas B. Scott For a Divorce

Jennie O. Scott today filed suit for divorce in circuit court against Thomas B. Scott, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, in that he was guilty of choking her and quarreling with her on different occasions during their married life. The complaint stated that they were married on November 23, 1904, and separated October 25 of this year. She alleges that her husband owns personal property in the sum of $15,000 and has an annual income of $2,000. She asks support for herself and child and the custody of the child and also $10,000 alimony and $500 attorney fees.

DOWNPOUR FAILS TO STOP MEETING

Congressman R. N. Elliott and Geo.
Barnard Speaks to Large Crowd
in Court Room.

CLOSE OF THE COUNTY TOUR

Republicans, More Than 200
Cars Being on Trip.

Despite a steady downpour of rain which continued throughout most of the evening, the final meeting of the county tour by republicans, was held Tuesday night at the court room and was well attended.

Plans for a meeting at the coliseum and a street parade had to be abandoned because of a heavy rain which set in at six o'clock. Congressman R. N. Elliott of Connerville and George Barnard of Newcastle, however, spoke at the court room to a crowd which occupied every seat, and enthusiastically received the speakers, especially Mr. Barnard.

The night meeting closed the most successful tour ever conducted by the republicans in this county. Though rain threatened most of the day, no rain fell, and the weather was good for outdoor meetings. Everywhere on both sides of the county the speakers met with a hearty reception and at each stop many automobiles joined the caravan.

By the time the cavalcade reached Carthage, there were more than two hundred automobiles in the tour. Carthage streets were jammed with machines. Rollin Turner and Tom Davison of Greensburg, Mr. Barnard and others made short speeches. There was also an enthusiastic meeting at Carthage last night, which was addressed by W. B. Byrum of Indianapolis, one of the speakers on the tour.

Congressman Elliott at the court room meeting here gave briefly the history of the fight for the suffrage, showing how the amendment was turned down in the 65th congress, overwhelmingly democratic, and was passed in fifteen days after the special session of the 66th congress, which was republican, convened. He was a member of the suffrage committee in the house and Senator James E. Watson was chairman of the senate suffrage committee.

The congressman devoted a good part of his speech to the extravagances of the present administration, pointing out the price of shoes had been advanced because of the government buying saddles and shoes in excess amounts. Forty-two million pairs of shoes were purchased for four million soldiers, he recalled, and 945,000 saddles for 14,000 cavalry horses.

"In addition," he continued, "you taxpayers had to buy Liberty bonds to pay for these extravagances. If you had not had to buy more bonds than were necessary to pay the necessary expenses, your bonds probably would have been at par instead of being worth about 90 cents on the dollar."

Mr. Barnard aroused the crowd to great enthusiasm on several occasions, though he himself was fagged out from delivering several

M. J. OGDEN ARRESTED TODAY

Center Charges Him With Assault
And For Trespassing

Miller J. Ogden, 313 East Eighth street, was arrested this afternoon on two charges preferred in Squire Stech's court, one being for trespass and the other for assault and battery. The charges are said to be the outgrowth of trouble between James Hobbs, a tenant in the house owned by Ogden which was damaged by fire Monday night, when Ogden is said to have accused him of setting the building on fire. This morning, according to the complaint, Hobbs ordered Ogden to leave his portion of the house, and the affidavit for assault was filed by Leila Hobbs, wife of the prosecuting witness in the other case. After being arrested, Mr. Ogden waived a hearing until an attorney could be seen.

COLLAR BONE IS BROKEN

Edith Lower, 12, Sustains Injury
on School Playground

Edith Lower, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lower, who reside southwest of this city, sustained a broken collar bone this morning while playing with other children during the morning recess at the Rushville Township school, southwest of here. The child was not seriously injured, and will be able to resume her studies in the morning. Dr. W. C. Smith of this city was called and reset the broken bone. The children were playing on the playground when the accident happened.

PROF. F. E. ROBBINS TO CONDUCT SCHOOL

Purdue Man Will be Assisted by Local Corn Men Saturday—Two Classes Arranged

URGED TO PROVIDE OWN CORN

The corn school which will be held in the county agent's office in the court house Saturday, will be conducted by Prof. F. E. Robbins of Purdue, who has been selected by the corn school committee. The school will be divided into two classes, one beginning at 1:30 in the afternoon and an evening class at 7:30.

Prof. Robbins will also be assisted at both meetings by a committee of local corn men who have had considerable experience in exhibiting at corn shows. A great deal of interest is being shown in the school and the coming corn show. It is expected that a large crowd of exhibitors will take advantage of the opportunity to attend the school here Saturday.

The committee urges those that care to, to bring in a few ears of corn of their own to work with, so that the exhibitor will have the advantage of learning how his corn and his idea of a good show ear conforms to the winning type of show ear. For those who do not bring their own corn, the committee will supply ears of corn to work with.

SAYS ARTICLE 10 IS ESSENCE OF LEAGUE

President Wilson Says in Statement
Issue is Whether "We Will Quit or Make Good"

ISSUED TO A DELEGATION

(By United Press)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The issue facing the country is "whether we will quit or make good," President Wilson said today in an appeal for the league of nations issue.

The appeal was read to a deputation of 15 men and women, members of the republican party who are supporting the league of nations. The president met the league issue as becoming obscured in the present campaign and he stated that the country, "the whole moral force in the world" depends upon the United States rather than upon any other nation.

Every candidate, the president said, should be tested by the question "whether he favors redeeming the great moral obligation of the United States."

The president held up Article 10 as the essence of the league, saying it "is the specific resumption of the pledge which the free governments of the world gave to their people when they started the war." President Wilson declared the so-called Americanism which we hear so much talk about is spurious and invented for party problems only.

Hamilton Holt and other members of the republican delegations said they were deeply touched by the physical appearance of the president who received them sitting in his chair.

HARDING STARTS FINAL TRIP TODAY

Harding Promptly Denies Colby
Statement Regarding His Spokesman Having Met Lenine.

(By United Press)

Marion, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Senator Warren G. Harding was to set out on his final campaign trip through Ohio shortly after noon today, arriving in Cleveland for an address tonight.

Harding will be on the road the remainder of the week, winding up his campaign with a speech at Columbus Saturday night.

The nominee will travel on a regular train during his speaking tour, and as his leisurely schedule will permit, he will make as many rear end speeches as possible.

Whether he can keep up the pace scheduled will depend on the cold which he has been suffering from.

The statement of Secretary Colby regarding an alleged spokesman claiming to have represented Senator Harding in a conference with Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik chief, came as an eleventh hour political development and was instantly denied by the nominee.

The league of nations, tariff protection, Americanism and constitutional government were expected to be headlines among the issues discussed by Senator Harding on his final campaign swing through Ohio.

In addition the Republican candidate will sum up for the voters of his own state the detailed platform which he has laid down during the campaign and on which he is asking for a national Republican victory at next week's election.

See West For G. O. P.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The political situation in the middle west, now "settled into its final form" indicates Republican majorities "so enormous that one hesitates to even mention them," according to John T. Adams, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, in charge of western headquarters, who today gave out the following review of campaign conditions in that territory.

"Minnesota will go for Harding by a very large majority, undoubtedly above 100,000. As a national organization the Democratic party

COX GETS BACK TO HIS OLD HOME TOWN

Speaks at Middletown Where He
Was a News Reporter and High School Student

M'SWINEY DEATH COMMENT

(By United Press)

Enroute with Governor Cox, Middletown, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Fighting for the league of nations, Gov. Cox came back to Middletown where about thirty years ago he was a news reporter and a high school student.

The democratic candidate was to spend the day in this district where he was born and has lived ever since.

Today he will speak in Dayton for the first time since he made his speech of acceptance August 7.

In his final campaign Cox is attacking Senator Harding more sharply than ever.

In his speech at Cincinnati today he made a statement concerning the death of Terence MacSwiney. "MacSwiney died as a martyr to his cause. Martyrdom don't simply grow. It is not created by the fleeting efforts of the hour. I believe that the martyrdom of MacSwiney will affect the European people as did the injustice of King George upon the American colonies during the revolutionary days."

DOUGHNUTS and CRULLERS

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

DOUGHNUTS made the doughboy happy during the war and no wonder. There is nothing more wholesome and delightful than doughnuts or crullers rightly made. Their rich, golden color and appetizing aroma will create an appetite quicker than anything else in the world.

Here are the famous doughnut and cruller recipes from the New Royal Cook Book.

Doughnuts
3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten egg; stir in milk; add nutmeg, salt, flour and baking powder which have been sifted together and enough additional flour to make dough stiff enough to roll. Roll out on floured board to about ¼ inch thick; cut out. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 60 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Afternoon Tea Doughnuts
2 eggs
6 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg

Crullers
4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and beaten eggs; sift together flour, cinnamon, salt and baking powder; add one-half and mix well; add milk and remainder of dry ingredients to make soft dough. Roll out on floured board to about ¼ inch thick and cut into strips about 4 inches long and ¼ inch wide; roll in hands and twist each strip and bring ends together. Fry in deep hot fat. Drain and roll in powdered sugar.

in Minnesota has almost ceased to exist.

"In Nebraska the Democratic organization is moribund. The Republican majority in that state will be unusually large, at least 50,000.

"In Iowa, Harding and Coolidge will win by well over 100,000. Senator Cummings will pull through, but he will run considerably behind the national ticket.

"In Wisconsin the certainty of an enormous majority for Harding has taken the life out of the national campaign. The governorship is on doubt.

"In Illinois the Harding and Coolidge majority is problematical. It may be around 250,000. I expect to see Mr. Small win over Colonel Lewis.

"In St. Louis an enormous Republican majority will be piled up. The state as a whole will go Republican by more than 40,000.

"North and South Dakota will show a vote about three to two in favor of Harding and Coolidge. The majorities will not be enormous, but they will be sure.

"The national Democratic ticket has been given up as hopeless and Mr. Cox is being traded off for state candidates."

Taggart Indicts Own Party

Tom Taggart's plea for election to the United States senate as a business man, wherein he indicted the democratic senate in which he served an unexpired term really was an indictment of his own party and the methods it employs when in power.

Taggart told of the inefficiency and waste of the democratic senate, but he did not explain how his election would correct it. His election might mean a democratic majority in the senate which would bring back the rule of the southern congressmen and senators which he himself deplors.

There is no disguising the fact that when the democratic party is in power, either in the legislative or executive branch, the south is in the saddle and takes every advantage of its opportunity to benefit that section of the country with "pork barrel" legislation.

We saw innumerable examples of favoritism shown the south during the war when the executive branch of the government as well as the 65th congress was in complete control of the democrats.

Taggart urges his own election to the senate that he may correct the evil which he admits existed in a democratic senate and which is bound to reappear, for the very same reasons, if a democratic majority is restored to the senate. It is as certain as the rising of the sun every morning, that if democracy regains a majority in congress, that the south will be in control because the democratic party draws its chief strength from the south. It is ruled by the southern legislators and to imagine that Taggart's election will prove a boon to the citizens of Indiana is nothing short of humorous.

By the way, logic of his argument, one is forced to admit that he should be defeated for the very reason that his one vote might be enough to put the democrats in power in the senate, which would be a source of profound regret to the citizens of Indiana, if what Taggart had to say about the democratic senate in which he sat, is true.

Another Referendum

tions, he issued an address to the voters of the country begging them, if they desired to endorse him as their spokesman in foreign affairs, to return a democratic majority in both senate and house. The voters promptly returned a republican majority in both houses. President Wilson asserted that he would "accept your verdict without cavil", but he went to France and insisted that he had been authorized by the American people to bind them to the obligations of the league of nations.

On his return to America he declared that an overwhelming majority of the people demand the league, but he found it desirable to go on a speaking tour of the country in an effort to convince that overwhelming majority that they ought to be for the league. Since the democratic defeats in the 1918 elections, there have been many notable political victories for candidates who are avowed enemies of the league in the form in which Wilson proposed it, but even all this evidence of popular disapproval of his scheme of national surrender is not sufficient to convince him of the error of his ways. He wants one more referendum in November—and he will get it.

The fellow who thinks the world owes him a living is generally too lazy to collect.

If you find a button off your coat be gallant and tell your wife when she is busy. It will afford her an excuse for forgetting.

Reverses are depressing only to those who give in to them.

Many a man can see a wart on a neck in the pew ahead of him when he can't see the collection plate as it passes in front of him.

(Indianapolis Star)

Mr. Warren T. McCray, who began his campaign for the office of Governor with a host of friends in the state, has steadily gained in favor as was expected. He is naturally especially strong with the farmers, who feel it to be time that they were represented in the Governor's chair by a practical, experienced and successful member of their own calling, one whose business is farming, not of the long-distance variety.

Mr. McCray understands agricultural interests in all their phases. The farmer's problems are his problems. He has studied them and solved many of them. He has learned the science of the soil by direct personal experiment and experience, but does not the less appreciate the teachings of agricultural schools, for he sends his son to Purdue that he may profit by the latest that science has to offer in the development of Indiana's greatest industry.

But while he represents farming interests as no other candidate for the office has done for many years, his opinions on the management of public affairs as set forth in his speeches have won the approval of business men. He believes for example, that the state's financial affairs should be handled on the budget system and says that if elected he will endeavor to carry out that plan. He promised to give all that is in him as a business man to the working out of the problems of the state for the benefit of the people. He hopes if elected, to see that school facilities are so improved that Indiana will no longer be the seventeenth state in educational rank.

Mr. McCray has commended himself to the people of the state as a representative farmer and citizen, one who understands the common public needs and will be able to meet them. The question that presents itself to the voters is whether their interests will be best served by a practical business man of his type or by a doctor, the most of whose year have been devoted to the study and practice of medicine and who was not known to take the smallest interest in politics until he decided to run for the highest office in the state. The question surely has but one answer—that McCray wins.

Watson of Indiana

(Washington Herald.)

Commonly we speak of Senator James E. Watson as an Indiana man, which he is. But in the larger sense, and properly, James E. Watson should be set down as a public man who belongs to the whole of the United States. His public activities have not been confined to the state of his birth, the political sub-division of the federal union which has honored him and which he honors. There are few, if any, of the forty-eight states of the American union in which Mr. Watson has not appeared for the discussion of public questions. There is not a single republican state that has not frequently welcomed him as one of the chiefs of the standard-bearers of the Republican party—true, never failing, ever ready, willing and eager to carry forward the cause of republicanism as it is written down in the party's spoken principles and treasured in its cherished traditions. Whether it be under the inspiring sunshine of success when triumph is evident or in the gloomy days of temporary party obscurity, Jim Watson is always at the bat. He never falters nor shirks, hides nor compromises.

Watson, now serving his first term in the senate, will be returned. He should be returned to the senate. He is needed there. The Republican president who will be elected next month needs him there, as does the country and the State of Indiana.

Upon the re-election of James E. Watson may depend the political standing of the senate term which is to begin the fourth of March next. The impending senate term will have a close political division, at the best. The democratic solid south will elect senators from the state of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Virginia this year sure, and it is more than likely that the mildly debatable border states of Kentucky, Maryland and Missouri will do likewise, although the Republicans may have some chance in these last-named states. But even if the predicted republican landslide comes, the Republican majority in the senate inevitably will be narrow. For that specific reason, if for none other, it is of the greatest importance that Indiana shall send Watson back to Washington.

So far as Indiana is concerned individually, the argument that James E. Watson should be re-elected is irresistible. The prestige of the state in a republican national administration inexorably demands it, for Watson's presence in the highest law making body of the land will add immeasurably to the power, influence and character of Indiana. Another thing, too, that ought to give pause to all the sober voters of Indiana in their meditations over the November elections, Republicans and Democrats who believe in constitutional government as well: The opposition to James E. Watson is sinister. The special appeal against him is made to restless elements of the population that are not in harmony with the checks and balances imposed by the constitution for the protection of all the people, for the safeguarding of property rights as well as individual rights. When these active, unscrupulous and reckless Democratic politicians invoke class hatred as a means of discounting the Republican James E. Watson they are striking at the very heart of the fundamental features of the American government. When they bring their hirelings into this state posing as labor leaders trying to poison laboringmen against Watson, their real objective, their true target, is the Republican party, for James E. Watson's labor record is the labor record of the Republican party.

When these men, politicians and paid spokesmen for the Democratic cabal that is seeking to hamper Warren G. Harding with an antagonistic senate, come into Indiana and offer Thomas Taggart to the laboringmen of Indiana as a substitute for James E. Watson they belie their own words, for they know that there is nothing in Taggart's past or present history, political or personal, to warrant a vote for him on the theory that he is a champion of or an especial friend of labor. It is not that these Democratic politicians want to elect Taggart. What they want is to defeat Watson—primarily because Watson will be the most conspicuous figure in a Republican senate, powerful, influential, useful, a tower of strength for the Republican party, as he will be a potent, fearless and unabashed defender of the constitution. It is utterly out of the question to have any patience whatever with any person who is so lost to the equities and the imperative requirements of the political situation as to propose an argument for Warren G. Harding and against James E. Watson. Speaking for Daviess county, we do not believe there are any such persons in this community.

Center Farmers' Association Has Enjoyable Session at Mays

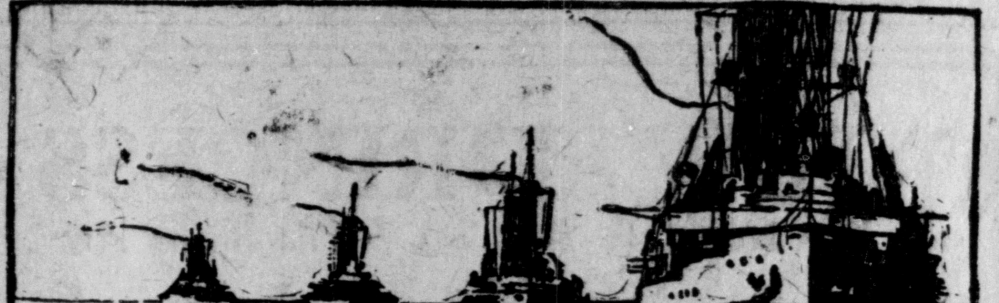

The Center Township Farmers' Association held their regular monthly meeting last night in the opera house at Mays, and the organization ran true to their former record of giving a splendid program. The entire affair was in the form of a Halloween party and the appropriate decorations were carried out in detail. A musical program was rendered and short talks were made by Fred Bell and Howard Ewbank. Donald

Ball, county agent, also spoke about the plans for the corn school and corn show that will be held here soon.

Following the evening's program, refreshments were served and a social time was indulged in by the members and guests.

GOITRE

Causing This Indianapolis Lady to Lose Hearing, Relieved by External Home Remedy

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Mrs. Emma Davis, 428 E. St. Clair St., says in her own home paper the Indianapolis Star: "My goitre, which was on both sides and middle began growing in 1900. It caused a choking sensation and I was losing my hearing. A Dayton, O., lady told me Sorbol Quadruple relieved her. One bottle has reduced my neck one inch and has given me much relief. You may use this letter as I want to aid all goitre sufferers, and I am glad in my heart for the relief I have had in one month."

Sorbol Quadruple comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Does not interfere with regular work. Leaves parts in healthful normal condition. Requires 10 minutes daily.

PREPARE FOR RECORD BREAKING ATTENDANCE

Expected 20,000 Fans Will View the Indiana-Northwestern Football Game at Indianapolis

TO BE PLAYED NEXT SATURDAY

(By United Press) Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—Indianapolis alumni of Indiana University are making extensive preparations for a record breaking attendance at the Indiana-Northwestern football game at Washington Park next Saturday. It is expected 20,000 fans will view the contest.

Coach E. O. Stiehm and his assistants have outlined a program of strenuous training for the Cream and Crimson varsity candidates and when they meet the Purple and Gold Squad here the fans will see one of the most hotly contested games of the football season.

Sterrenous practice and an entire new schedule of plays are the program features for the next two weeks practice. Coach Stiehm and his assistants are giving the Cream and Crimson players intensive training.

The Indianapolis alumni have arranged for the filling of mail order tickets reservations at the Indiana University Extension Division, 1116 Merchants Bank building.

HARDING LEADS IN THE LITERARY DIGEST POLL

FAVORITE BY FOUR TO ONE

New York, Oct. 27.—Additional ballots cast last week in the Literary Digest presidential poll put Senator Harding further in the lead over Governor Cox. Harding's gain over Cox in the week's voting is approximately twenty-five percent. The figures this week are: Harding, 112,554; Cox, 31,796. In the totals for the preceding week Harding led Cox by three to one, and the latest figures make Harding the favorite by four to one. In Indiana Harding gained 907 votes for the week as compared to Cox's gain of 479. The vote is being taken in the six pivotal states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, New York and California. Harding has the lead in every state polled and his increases last week are greater in every instance than gains made by Cox.

Amusements

"The False Code," Mystic The home of John Benton, with its little family of three, was a happy one. And then came the crash. Home, wife and daughter, business—even his good name—were swept away from him, an innocent, upright American business man. Such a character is the ideal one Mrs. Kate Corbaley has created in her story, "The False Code," for that sterling character actor, Frank Keenan. This is the picture showing today at the Mystic Theatre. Stepping blindly into a trap set by a business partner whereby all evidence in the mysterious sinking of a boat loaded with a fake cargo on which insurance is collected, John Benton, shipowner and brains and backbone of a shipbuilding concern, served twelve of the best years of his life behind prison walls. When he came back his wife was dead and his baby daughter grown to beautiful young womanhood and very much in love with the son of one of the men who had conspired against him—one of the men to whom he had said, "As sure as there is a God in heaven, you will pay for this!" But vengeance was his, and, eventually, happiness for wronged. Supporting Mr. Keenan is a cast including such sterling actors as Joseph J. Dowling, Clyde Benson, Edward J. Brady, Myles McCarthy, Jean Calhoun and Pell Trenton. "The False Code" is Frank Keenan's fourth independent production for Pathe.

THE ISSUES

The result of the coming election will not hinge upon the Wilson League of Nations. It will not and should not. The Wilson League with Article 10 can not be ratified whatever the result may be. At most it had but 29 votes in the last session, and with election of every new senator favorable to it, it would lack a constitutional majority in the next session.

The next senate will adopt some league, some association or some adaptation of the original idea. That it will not be a military alliance that will sacrifice any part of our sovereignty is certain. It WILL be an adjustment arrived at by the senate—just as all our governmental policies have been and as was the Constitution, and being such, it will be safe and healthful, and will be promptly signed by a Republican President. That action will be in the spirit of our representative government. Such an outcome we can not change or prevent, and should NOT.

The Questions We Must Determine by Our Votes Are—

- Are we willing to risk four more years of Democratic Mismanagement?
- Will we return to "Party Responsibility" or continue to depend upon the "One Man Rule?"
- Will we have the Democratic Party or the Republican Party solve the following problems during the next four years?
- THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.
- GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OR OPERATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.
- THE CONTROL OF AGGREGATIONS OF CAPITAL.
- THE MAINTENANCE OF WAGES BY THE CONTINUATION OF RENEWED PROSPERITY.
- THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF INDUSTRY.
- THE REVISION OF FEDERAL TAXES
- THE TARIFF.
- THE MERCHANT MARINE.
- THE RESTORATION IN ADMINISTRATIVE DEPARTMENTS OF SKILLED AND EXPERIENCED HEADS TO DISPLACE IMPRACTICAL IDEALISTS OR PARTISAN INCOMPETENTS.

The Failure of Democratic Statesmanship

The failure of Democratic statesmanship to meet these issues and solve them is notorious. In Washington today there is wastefulness and extravagance, inefficiency and carelessness, such as has never been seen there before. There is compromising with evil. There is greed. There is an army of needless employees working for party and not for country. There is, dealing with capital and dealing with labor—all putting off of a reckoning that threatens the most serious disaster. Most serious of all, there is a display of recklessness with the fundamentals of our government.

The Republican Party Promises

to meet this situation, to restore the Constitution, to accept the responsibility as a party, and to have again the departments of government functioning together in harmony and unity.

NEIGHBORS ALL TALK ABOUT IT

Mrs. Schockley Says She is Not Like Same Woman Since Taking Tan-lac

"For the first time in fifteen years I'm enjoying the best of health, and my neighbors are all talking about how well I'm looking", declared Mrs. F. A. Schockley, wife of a well-known engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, who lives at 2402 Oliver Street, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Fifteen years ago I began to be troubled with rheumatism in my joints and fingers. My appetite became so poor I didn't relish a thing I ate, and I suffered from headaches and dizziness constantly. My nerves were terribly upset, and at night I was so restless I could scarcely sleep. My feet and limbs swelled up so with rheumatism that they gave me no end of misery, and many times I was unable to do any of my housework at all.

"I saw where Tanlac was helping so many people that I started taking it, and although I've only taken two bottles now, I feel like an entirely different person. My appetite is so splendid that I just want to be eating all the time and I no longer suffer from headaches or dizziness. The rheumatism has entirely disappeared and I never have a pain of any kind. I'm not the least bit nervous and my sleep is sound and refreshing. I'm just feeling fine in every way, and my husband says he never saw such a wonderful change in so short a time in anyone as Tanlac has made in me. I have all the faith in the world in Tanlac and don't hesitate to recommend it when ever I have the opportunity."

club this afternoon at her home in West Tenth street. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the card games.

The Band of Workers of the First Presbyterian church met this afternoon in the parlors of the church for their regular meeting. An appropriate program was given followed by a short business session.

The Willing Workers class of the St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Sam Young, 325 North Perkins street. Every member is invited to be present.

Mrs. Fred Bell was hostess for the members of the Sunshine Embroidery club this afternoon at her home northeast of the city. Needlework was the amusement for the afternoon and during the social hour at the close of the party a luncheon was served.

The Needlework Embroidery club of Raleigh was delightfully entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Sharp at her home northeast of Raleigh. The guests enjoyed the afternoon sewing and delicious refreshments were served at a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Addison and son Keith and daughter Pauline entertained the following guests Sunday: Mrs. Glenn Kaler and Mrs. Nora Kaler of Andersonville and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford J. Miller and son Fred of Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Ora Beckner and son William were guests in the evening.

About forty guests attended the thimble party given this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Johnson in West Second street with the Mrs. Johnson and Miss Sue Gregg as hostesses. The afternoon was enjoyed with an informal sewing party followed by the social hour, during which the hostesses served a delicious course luncheon.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church held a very enjoyable meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lon Link in North Perkins street. Mrs. John Zeigle had charge of the devotional meeting and excellent talks were given by Mrs. John Boyd, Mrs.

Holmes and Mrs. Liddle. A large attendance was present for the meeting.

Mrs. John Thompson entertained the members of the Loyal Daughters class of the Main Street Christian church last evening at her home in East Seventh street. The eighteen guests present were masked and much enjoyment was had in guessing the identity of those present. Following the social hour the guests spent the remainder of the evening sewing for the Red Cross. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Forty ladies were graciously entertained this afternoon with a one o'clock luncheon and bridge party at the home of Mrs. Lee Endres in North Harrison street. The dining table where the delicious four course luncheon was served, was gaily decorated with Hallowe'en decorations and a large bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums centered the table. Following the repast the guests enjoyed the remainder of the afternoon over the bridge tables.

Miss Marie Alsman entertained Tuesday evening with an informal party at her home north of Arlington, honoring her 18th birthday. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. The evening was spent with music and party games. The guests were the Misses Nella Arnold, Mary Foster, Jean Carr, Opal Serapper, Mabel Lee, Nina Seward, Velma Ronan, Florence and Margaret Shaffer, Myrtle Alsman, Marie Alsman and Rhulan Overlees, John Alsman, Lee Mitchell, Harry Hawk, Harlan Lee, Charles Alsman, Frank Coon, Denning Nelson, Arnold Alsman, Jake Ruby, George Offutt and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alsman and daughter of Greensburg. At a late hour refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

were of any greater interest than in 1860 when we nominated that peerless leader.

"The Wilson league of nations is as vital an issue as those in 1860. Under this arrangement known as the league, I leave it to you that if we should accept this covenant, we would see things as terrible as those which rocked the nation in the sixties."

The speaker said that he wished to clear up the league of nations issue between the two parties.

"We agree," he said, "that the democratic issue was tendered to us by Wilson and then by his beneficiary, Cox, that they stand for the covenant as brought back by Wilson. They have charged Harding with changing front. I want to deny this and in doing so I want to refer to the record."

In order to get at the principle on which Harding was nominated, he pointed out, it was necessary to read the platform, and he quoted that part of it referring to the league—that the republicans stand for an agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world.

"The democrats have misrepresented our position," he continued, "and have attempted to leave the impression that the republicans are against any league because they are against the Wilson league."

Mr. Barnard then read the part of Sen. Harding's speech of acceptance referring to the league and continued:

"We insist that whatever agreement we make, we must hold sacred our principles of government which have been inviolate and that we shall have the privilege of stating under what terms we shall enter any agreement with any foreign nation."

"A democrat said after I made a speech here before that I did not read Article 10 because I did not dare to. I had it with me then and I have it now and I intend to read it. I will show that the obligation is binding and one which the United States will have to live up to regardless of where the power to declare war is lodged."

He read the article and then pointed out that Wilson himself had said the obligation of the article was not legal but moral.

"All treaties rest on a moral obligation," the speaker declared. "They are built on the word of one nation to another. Yet Pres. Wilson takes the position that this article puts an end to war."

Mr. Barnard said he was astonished ed that so many ministers should favor the league.

"If anyone should oppose this unholy alliance, it is the minister of the gospel. He is for it because he thinks he sees in it an end to war. If he will study it carefully, he will see no bond of peace, but the flames of war and the consequent desolation of homes and firesides. It is conceived in selfishness of nations. It started wrong. It is an English document, written by an English diplomat and soldier to serve their own purposes. It amounts to nothing more than signing a blank power of attorney and handing it to the foreign powers."

Mr. Barnard closed with an appeal for more business in government and less government in business. He referred to the disrepute in which this nation had fallen because of Wilson's wobbling foreign policy.

"If ever in history our government," he said in closing, "the necessity arose to put men of courage, men of conviction, men of unquestioned Americanism, in office, that time is now."

THE RANGE BEAUTIFUL

The strikingly beautiful outlines of the Copper-Clad Range stops every woman. As she looks and admires, she finds that it is true beauty—the beauty of simple elegance and perfect proportions—of fine finish—the thoroughbred of the Range World.

Look for hinges on the above—only two on the oven door and they are long and smooth. There are six other doors yet not a hinge in sight, not a catch, nor hook nor latch. Built like fine automobiles, the hinges are all inside.

"COPPER - CLAD" MEANS

Come—See the Asbestos Sweat

COPPER-CLAD WEEK
This Week, Oct. 25 to 30

No matter whether you want a range now or next year or any other time, it will pay you to come and see the Copper-Clad Crank make the Asbestos Sweat.

He takes any piece of Asbestos, puts it between two iron plates—heats it—and shows you the sweat. You can roll it up in drops with your finger.

The Copper - Clad Idea Is "Pure Sheet Copper Between the Asbestos and Range Body"

Copper never rusts. It may tarnish but it will last centuries. There are Copper Domes that have been defying the elements for hundreds of years. So, when we say a "Copper-Clad can't rust out," we mean that the copper lining overcomes all internal rust. Your greasy rag will keep outside free of rust—and there are no fussy ornaments full of rivets and bolts to keep down fuel cost. Every time the range cools off, the asbestos takes moisture out of the fresh air circulating through the range like a blotter takes up water. When you fire up, this moisture is driven by the heat to the outside against the cold range body and starts Sweat-Rust on the inside where you can get at it even though you know it rusts. Sweat-Rust ruins thousand and thousands of otherwise good ranges every year. When the body is gone, the range is done for.

If these things are so—you should know it. Not by hearsay—but by the evidence of your own eyes. Remember, this Copper-Clad Crank is here to tell—to show—to explain. He delights in it. You won't "bother" him by asking questions. He has oodles of time to answer and he is here to "Show You."

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

WILL HONOR ENGAGEMENTSCox Asserts That America Will Meet Treaty Obligations

Paris, Oct. 27—America will honor all engagements of the peace treaty and will observe all obligations, Governor Cox told Maurice DeKobra, French newspaper man, according to an interview published here.

DeKobra, who was thought to be the official representative of France to approach Senator Harding on a new plan of an association of nations, quoted Cox as follows:

"Should Germany attack France, United States will send aid and observe all obligations of the treaty. We won't make a separate peace with Germany."

Chester Winkler, son of Jefferson and Mary Winkler, died Tuesday morning Sept. 28th 1920 at the home of his father-in-law J. W. Poe. Death being due to heart trouble. He was born at Franklin Ind. Johnson Co. May 27th, 1881 making him 39 years 4 months and one day old.

He was married to Inez Poe Friday Sept. 4th 1920. Leaving to mourn his sad departure, his wife Mrs. Inez Winkler, his father Jefferson Winkler of Franklin Ind. Three sisters Mrs. Grace Winkler of Jackson township, Mrs. Myrtle Smith of near Raleigh Ind., and Miss Dora Winkler of this city. Also three brothers, Edgar Winkler north of town Harry Winkler of Franklin Ind., and William R. Winkler of Los Angeles Calif.

His mother with one sister and three brothers having preceded him in death.

His death was a great shock to his relatives and friends as he was only sick about thirty minutes. He died before the doctor reached him. He had a sunny cheerful disposition. Always looking on the bright side of life. He had a big heart, always sympathetic, and ready to share what he had and to do what ever he could for others. The early part of his life was spent in Franklin Ind. Then he came to Rush Co. having made his home with his sisters and brothers until he was married a short time ago.

He was a member of the Christian church at Sexton Ind. We miss thee from our homes dear one,

We miss thee from thy place;
 A shadow o'er our life is cast,
 We miss the sunshine of thy face.
 We miss thy fond and willing hand,
 Thy fond and earnest care,

Our homes are dark without thee
 We miss thee everywhere.

"Farewell dear one, sweetly rest;
 Weary with life and worn with pain
 Farewell till in some happy place;
 We shall behold thy face again,
 'Tis ours to miss thee all our years,
 And tender memories of thee keep
 Then in the Lord to rest, for lo,
 He giveth his beloved sleep.

Device Does Satisfactory Work on Very Lumpy Soil.

Illustration Gives Good Idea of Construction of Implement Which Can Be Put Together at Small Cost — It Kills Weeds.

It sometimes happens that land gets very lumpy or full of clods and, to get the best results, these clods should be mashed or ground up. To do this a home-made clod crusher will be found to do the work in a most satisfactory manner.

The accompanying drawing shows how such a crusher can be made at home with but slight expense. It is made by taking two two-by-eight pieces eight feet long and spiking two by six pieces on the ends and also on top. To save a little expense a sled tongue can be used, and will answer just as well as to make one. A four by four piece is placed between the floats and is held in place by lag screws in each end. This piece should have teeth inserted into its lower side which are made from five-sixteenths inch round iron, and should stick out about two and one-half inches. Holes should be bored into the four by four, slightly smaller than the iron, and should slant backward. A lever can be bolted to this piece, which by moving front or back will press the teeth more or less into the soil. There could be a seat put onto it, but it is better to stand up, as by so doing, if any rubbish gets under it, a step forward will raise the hind end and let the obstruction out, says a writer in The Farmer. This machine is also a fine thing to go over a corn field just before the corn comes up and will kill more weeds than a drag.

His Joints Would Crack Like Whip

Muscles sore, joints painful, bowels bound up and liver sluggish. Dreco was quick to overcome these ails.

"I have suffered a long time from constipation, rheumatism in my muscles and at times my joints would crack like a whip; my entire system was rundown and needed building up," said Mr. N. Mitchell, a well known farmer of Route 2, Roanoke, Ind.

"I have just started on my second bottle of Dreco and it has done me worlds of good, the pain and stiffness has left my muscles and joints, my bowels are moving regular and easy once more, and my liver is active. I never saw any medicine do the work like Dreco."

When the wastes of the body are not eliminated regularly a poison accumulates in the system which is known as toxin, this goes through the blood and causes all sorts of trouble and distress. It is impossible for anyone to be well unless the different organs of the body perform their functions in the manner in which Nature intended.

The old fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs are the best for any one to take. Dreco is made from twelve different roots, herbs, barks and leaves. These act on the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys and purify the blood. Dreco knocks rheumatism out shortly relieves catarrh of the head and stomach, makes you sleep sound and creates a good appetite. As a blood purifier nothing can equal Dreco. It puts a stop to boils, eczema and other blood affections.

All druggists now sell Dreco and it is being especially introduced in Rushville by F. B. Johnson & Co.—Adv.

UPHOLDS THE ACTION OF STATE TAX BOARD

FARMERS MADE A COMPLAINT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27—Judge Linn Hay in Superior court Tuesday denied a petition of a group of Marion county taxpayers asking for a restraining order to enjoin the state tax board which horizontally increased property valuation.

The decision upheld the constitutionality of the Tuthill-Kiper law enacted by the recent special legislature to overcome the effects of the supreme court ruling invalidating the increases under the old law.

Judge Hay held that he was reasonably satisfied that the law does not warrant granting of an injunction.

Hay upheld the action of the state tax board in interpreting the position of the law.

"It seems to me that the intentions of the legislature was to provide a way for the taxing officials to aid the board of equalization and to equalize the assessed valuation of all property to all taxing units alike," the court said.

An adverse decision by the judge on the subsequent resolution by the supreme court would throw the state back into the state of turmoil that existed before the law was enacted.

U.S. SHOULD REMAIN SAFE

Stay Out of League Until Countries Agree, Harding Says

Marion, Ohio, Oct. 27—The only safe course for America is to remain outside the league of nations until a plan of an association of nations can be united upon so there will be no uncertainty or equivocation," Senator Warren G. Harding declared today, relating to the statement of M. Bourgeois (president of the league council).

Bourgeois stated that Article 10 was not a vital part of the covenant. This Senator Harding interpreted to mean that if Article 10 was eliminated, objections against it would be still provided in other sections of the covenant.

FIGURING CAPACITY OF SILO

In Estimating Diameter and Height Allow Each Cow Four to Five Square Feet of Surface.

If your cows are fed 40 pounds silage daily for six months they will need nearly 7,500 pounds or a silo capacity of four tons each. In estimating diameter and height, allow each cow four to five square feet of feeding surface in the silo. Ten cows would require a feeding surface of 50 feet. A silo eight feet in diameter would have a cross section or feeding surface of 50 square feet. For ten cows therefore, a silo should be eight feet in diameter. Fifteen cows should have a silo 10 feet in diameter (if 20 feet high it has a capacity of 26 tons and if 32 feet high, 51 tons); 20 cows should have a silo 12 feet in diameter. Forty cows will need a silo 16 or 18 feet in diameter and about 80 feet high.

TREATMENT OF ARMY WORMS

Pests Can Be Kept Out of Field by Plowing Up a Furrow in Front of Them.

After army worms once get into a field there is nothing practical which can be done to stop them. They can be kept out of a field, however, by plowing a deep furrow in front of them. Plow a furrow about eight inches deep and square up one side of the furrow with a spade. Every ten or fifteen feet in the furrow dig a shallow posthole. As fast as the army worms accumulate in the furrow, and especially in the postholes, sprinkle them with kerosene. Army worms move fast and it is necessary to apply this treatment promptly or they will have moved into the threatened field and there is nothing whatever which can be done. If the trench treatment is applied promptly it proves very satisfactory.

GRAIN FOR EWES AND LAMBS

Unless Animals Are Being Conditioned for Market Pasture and Forage Are Sufficient.

If the ewes and lambs have good pasture and forage crops it will seldom pay to feed any grain feed, unless the lambs are being conditioned for the summer market. Pumpkins planted in the corn field make an ideal supplement for the fall pastures.

LARGE FORCE WILL WATCH

Washington, Oct. 27—Prohibition enforcement officials were making preparations to hit the line hard in next few weeks in their battle against bootleggers as the result of the recent exposure of liquor rings and brewers market in Chicago, New York, and other cities.

John Kramer, prohibition commissioner, has a new alignment of forces with which to conduct the fight. Directly responsible to Kramer are a force of nearly 2,000 officials. Backing him is Attorney General Palmer with more than 300 district attorneys and 400 United States marshals with their deputies. They will maintain a close watch along the borders between United States and Canada and United States and Mexico.

BEET PULLER IS LATE INVENTION

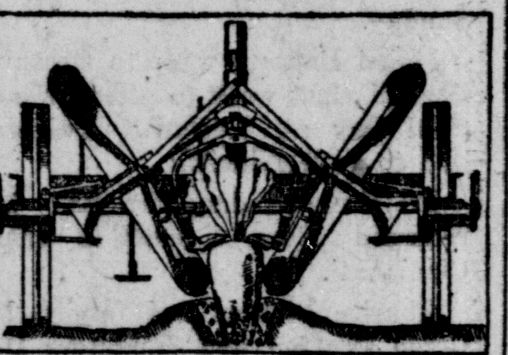

Machine Designed by Californian for Doing This Hard and Expensive Task.

As Beet Is Pulled From Ground Knives on Each Side Cut Off Tops of Leaves—Easy to Harvest Profitable Crop.

Pulling sugar beets is one of the big jobs which confront the grower of this very profitable crop. It is a lot of work, and work that takes time and energy at least, and often costs money as well. A man in the beet fields of California has designed a machine which he thinks is a wonder for doing this hard and expensive task. Instead of using inclined rods, on the principle of the gathering points of a corn binder, for pulling the beets, this man uses padded wheels for this purpose.

Cross Sectional View.
The upright V-shaped portion of the accompanying illustration is a cross sectional view through the padded wheel pullers. The axles of these wheeled pullers extend down to the inner hubs of the main driving wheels of the machine, and are here driven or revolved by these main wheels. Grouters or diggers go along ahead of the pulling wheels, on each side of the row of beets, and loosen the ground around them so that they will be easier to pull when the pulling wheels of the machine engage them. From the drawing it will be noticed that the pulling wheels are set so the lower portions are much closer together than are the upper portions. As the machine passes forward over the beets in a row, these pulling wheels are rotated backward and upward, and in so rotating they lift beets out of the ground.

Cuts Off Leaves.
So located between the pulling wheels that they pass just over the top of the beet are two knives, one on each side. Thus, as the machine is drawn forward and the beet is lifted up, these knives cut off the top or leaves of the beet; thus it is pulled and topped at one and the same time by the one machine, these being two separate operations. In the ordinary hand method of harvesting beets.

Eruptions of the Skin

Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the flaming, burning itching that these diseases produce.

Skin diseases are caused by an impurity or disorder in the blood, and there is no real and genuine relief within your reach until such impurities are removed. S.S.S. has given great satisfaction in the treatment of these disorders, because it is such a thoroughly satisfactory blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all impurities, and thus counteracts the effects of the germs that attack the skin.

Begin taking S.S.S. today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical adviser will give you expert advice without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 158 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW PRICES ON SHOES

This store is offering some new Fall and Winter Shoes for men, women and children at reduced prices..

These Shoes were bought months ago when the price of leather was at its highest level. Leather prices are lower now, but this leather cannot be made into shoes much before the Spring 1921 season.

The new Fall Shoe prices anticipate the Spring reduction on shoes; they are six months ahead. In other words, you will buy your Fall and Winter Footwear, as you always do, at the rock bottom prices.

You always buy our shoes with confidence. No matter what condition exists, they are priced right, they fit right and they give long wear.

Exert Much Influence in Producing Qualities of Offspring—Two Classes of Hens.

Doctor Pearl, formerly of the Maine experiment station, makes mention of the fact that among the high producing hens there are two classes, one class having the ability to transmit their high laying qualities to their daughters and the other class being poor breeders. It simply amounts to the selection by means of the trap nest of the high layers. These in turn are mated to sons of high layers and the progeny of the mating is again tested as to egg production. It is agreed by the most careful observers that the male bird exerts a very important influence in the producing qualities of the offspring, and that a good hen mated to a poor male would likely give very indifferent results.

DAY FOR DIGGING POTATOES

Quality Is Influenced to Considerable Extent by Manner in Which They Are Dug.

The table quality of potatoes is influenced to a considerable extent by the way they are dug and stored.

Potatoes should be dug if possible, on a clear day, when the soil is not wet enough to cling to them, advises the college. They should be left in the field only long enough to become dry, then stored in a place which is cool and rather moist, and as dark as possible.

Under ordinary home storage conditions, because of the danger of decay, it is not wise to have the potatoes more than two and one-half or three feet deep, either in a pile or in a box, says an agricultural college potato man.

FLOOR OF PORTABLE HOUSES

It Should Be at Least One Foot From Ground, Open and Free—Cement Baffles Rats.

Floors of portable poultry colony houses should be at least one foot from the ground, and the space underneath should be open and free. Permanent brooder houses should have cement floors, and the doors and windows should be screened with one-inch mesh wire fencing. If such precautions are taken, rats and weasels usually do little damage.

SALT PREVENTS INDIGESTION

Used by Experienced Shepherds in Changing Sheep From Old Pasture to New.

Many experienced shepherds mix salt with air-slaked lime, a little more lime than salt to prevent indigestion and bloat when the sheep are changed to new pastures. On some farms tobacco stems are dipped in a strong salt brine and no additional salt is given to the sheep. This helps to control parasitic infection and is beneficial to the ewes and lambs.

TWELVE PAGES TODAY

TO GET SUPPLIES HERE ON SATURDAY

Election Inspectors Instructed to Call at Clerk's Office Between 10
and 2:30

EACH WILL HAVE A BIG LOAD

Supplies Will be Heavier Because of
More Voters—Breakfast Will
Not be Served.

Election supplies and the state ballots have been delivered in this city to county Clerk Loren Martin, and the next day or so will be strenuous work on his part in getting ready for the distribution of the supplies to the different precincts, so that everything will be ready for their disposal to the election inspectors on Saturday.

With each precinct having almost double the number of voters, it means that the election inspector will have his hands full when he takes charge of the necessary articles Saturday. For an example, the largest precinct in Rushville and the county is number 1, which has 561 persons registered. When the inspector from this precinct calls Saturday for his supplies, he will take away with him:

Over 700 state and 700 county ballots, which is one-fourth more than the number of registered voters; and will weigh approximately 17 pounds.

Two bottles of ink. (The cork generally comes out before the inspector reaches his destination.)

All of the original applications for registration, which will weigh four or five pounds.

The two precinct registration books, each about three feet square.
A large roll of instructions to voters, and a box containing election supplies, including roll sheets, tally papers, blank affidavits, certificates of election, pencils, pens and blotters. This box weighs several pounds.

Inspectors are required to call at the office of the county clerk on Saturday between the hours of 10 a. m., and 2:30 in the afternoon. Those who fail to call at the court house between those hours on the day designed, can be penalized.

Township trustees, by virtue of their office, must serve as the inspector of the precinct in which he resides. Under the law inspectors

Also Recommends Re-Election of
Rep. R. N. Elliott Because of

SAYS DRY MUST STAND PAT

William J. Bryan recommends the re-election of Senator James E. Watson of Indiana and of Congressman Richard N. Elliott of the sixth Indiana district, because of their records on the wet and dry question, in an article in the American Issue, the national organ of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mr. Bryan urges that dries everywhere disregard political affiliations and party names in any contest between a wet and dry candidate for the house or senate.

"No dry democrat or republican can afford to be less interested in the home than the wets are in the saloon," he said. "Party lines do not divide the wets. They unite on the wet candidate regardless of the party; that is why politicians are more afraid of the wet vote than of the dry vote."

"Even in the senatorial contests the attitude of the candidate on the liquor question can not be ignored.
While the parties have put the treaty question to the front, everyone knows that neither party can hope to have within five votes of a two-thirds majority within that body. But a majority is enough to pass an ordinary bill and therefore a majority can repeal or weaken the Volstead act."

HEART FAILURE DEATH CAUSE

Verdict of The Inquest of Remains
of Terence MacSwiney

(By United Press)

London, Oct. 27.—Terence Mac-Swiney died of heart failure according to the verdict of the inquest held over the remains of the Irish hunger striker.

A dilated heart, acute delirium and scurvy due to exhaustion when he refused to eat, brought death, according to the inquest held.

Following the inquest the body of MacSwiney was conveyed from the mortuary to St. Georges Cathedral where it will lie in state until 11 a.
m. when mass will be celebrated by Arch Bishop Mannix and Bishop Carter.

Member of Oldenburg Convent, Formerly Mary Joyce of This City,
Expires

FUNERAL THURSDAY, 6 A. M.

Relatives here received word this morning of the death of Sister Bertrand, who was formerly Miss Mary Joyce of this city, and the local relatives will attend the funeral in the morning at six o'clock at Oldenburg, where she deceased was a member of the convent.

Sister Bertrand was born and reared in this county and joined the convent 26 years ago, being 61 years of age at the time of her death. In recent months she was taken ill and underwent two serious operations at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati. About a week ago relatives were called to Cincinnati where she was in a serious condition waiting to undergo a further operation. It is presumed that she expired at the Cincinnati hospital, and it is not known whether she had undergone the operation or not.

The deceased is survived by the following brothers in this city: William B. Joyce, Thomas Joyce and John Joyce; Henry Joyce of Kokomo and a sister, Mrs. Ed Runyan of Muncie. The funeral services will be held at six o'clock, according to the custom at the Oldenburg convent.

Accepts Call Extended by Local Congregation

PREACHED HERE LAST SUNDAY

The Rev. Reno Tacoma of Muncie has accepted the call extended to him by the members of the congregation of the First Baptist church of this city, and he will take up his new pastorate here about the first of December.

The new minister comes here highly recommended from Muncie, where he has been pastor of the Walnut Street First Baptist church for five years. He also made a favorable impression on the local congregation last Sunday, when he delivered his trial sermon.

The church has been without a regular minister since the middle of June, when the Rev. C. J. Bunnell left here to take up a similar charge at Burnettsville, Ind., where he had previously held the charge.

It is expected that the Rev. Mr.
Tacoma will be here about December 9, and will take charge immediately following.

George Gray, a farmer living east of this city, fell unconscious on the street, in front of the People's National Bank, shortly after two o'clock this afternoon, and was later removed to his home, after he had regained consciousness. It was not learned what caused his sudden illness.

Monday, November 1

Rushville, 2 p. m.—Senator James E. Watson at the coliseum. Parade leaves public square at 1:30.

The drive for votes in this county will continue unabated until the very end of the campaign, which will be closed by the republicans Monday afternoon with an address by Senator James E. Watson at the coliseum and by the democrats with a Saturday night meeting at the coliseum, to be addressed by Mrs. Demarchus H. Brown and Fred Van Nuy of Indianapolis.

The democrats have scheduled on meeting for next Monday night outside of Rushville and another one being arranged for it, is announced but the republicans will close their bombardment of oratory with the Watson speech.

The republicans are centering their efforts on making the Watson meeting the biggest of the campaign because they count it a privilege to get him when there has been such a big demand for his appearance in the state. He has been making five or six speeches a day and will continue to do so until the eve of the election, when he will close the campaign at Newcastle.

Republican meetings will be held tonight at Milroy, Manilla and Glenwood and there was a meeting this afternoon at Butler school, Richland township, for the instruction of women voters. Practically every community in the county will be invaded by the republicans this week in their final drive.

Much emphasis has also been placed on the republican speaking at the Second M. E. church Thursday night and the court room meeting Friday night, when John McCardle

ASKS FOR $10,000 ALIMONY

Jennie O. Scott Sues Thomas B.
Scott For a Divorce

Jennie O. Scott today filed suit for divorce in circuit court against Thomas B. Scott, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, in that he was guilty of choking her and quarreling with her on different occasions during their married life. The complaint stated that they were married on November 23, 1904, and separated October 25 of this year. She alleges that her husband owns personal property in the sum of $15,000 and has an annual income of $2,000. She asks support for herself and child and the custody of the child and also $10,000 alimony and $500 attorney fees.

Congressman R. N. Elliott and Geo.
Barnard Speaks to Large Crowd
in Court Room.

CLOSE OF THE COUNTY TOUR

Republicans, More Than 200
Cars Being on Trip.

Despite a steady downpour of rain which continued throughout most of the evening, the final meeting of the county tour by republicans, was held Tuesday night at the court room and was well attended.

Plans for a meeting at the coliseum and a street parade had to be abandoned because of a heavy rain which set in at six o'clock. Congressman R. N. Elliott of Connersville and George Barnard of Newcastle, however, spoke at the court room to a crowd which occupied every seat, and enthusiastically received the speakers, especially Mr. Barnard.

The night meeting closed the most successful tour ever conducted by the republicans in this county.
Though rain threatened most of the day, no rain fell, and the weather was good for outdoor meetings. Everywhere on both sides of the county the speakers met with a hearty reception and at each stop many automobiles joined the caravan.

By the time the cavalcade reached Carthage, there were more than two hundred automobiles in the tour.
Carthage streets were jammed with machines. Rollin Turner and Tom Davison of Greensburg, Mr. Barnard and others made short speeches.
There was also an enthusiastic meeting at Carthage last night, which was addressed by W. B. By-rum of Indianapolis, one of the speakers on the tour.

Congressman Elliott at the court room meeting here gave briefly the history of the fight for the suffrage, showing how the amendment was turned down in the 65th congress, overwhelmingly democratic, and was passed in fifteen days after the special session of the 66th congress, which was republican, convened. He was a member of the suffrage committee in the house and Senator James E. Watson was chairman of the senate suffrage committee.

The congressman devoted a good part of his speech to the extravagances of the present administration, pointing out the price of shoes had been advanced because of the government buying saddles and shoes in excess amounts. Forty-two million pairs of shoes were purchased for four million soldiers, he recalled, and 945,000 saddles for 34,000 cavalry horses.

"In addition," he continued, "you taxpayers had to buy Liberty bonds to pay for these extravagances. If you had not had to buy more bonds than were necessary to pay the necessary expenses, your bonds probably would have been at par instead of being worth about 90 cents on the dollar."

Mr. Barnard aroused the crowd to great enthusiasm on several occasions, though he himself was fa-tired out from delivering several

W. J. OGDEN ARRESTED TODAY

Renter Charges Him With Assault
And For Trespassing

Miller J. Ogden, 313 East Eighth street, was arrested this afternoon on two charges preferred in Squire Stech's court, one being for trespass and the other for assault and battery. The charges are said to be the outgrowth of trouble between James Hobbs, a tenant in the house owned by Ogden which was damaged by fire Monday night, when Ogden is said to have accused him of setting the building on fire. This morning, according to the complaint, Hobbs ordered Ogden to leave his portion of the house, and the affidavit for assault was filed by Leila Hobbs, wife of the prosecuting witness in the other case. After being arrested, Mr. Ogden waived a hearing until an attorney could be seen.

Edith Lower, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lower, who reside southwest of this city, sustained a broken collar bone this morning while playing with other children during the morning recess at the Rushville Township school, southwest of here. The child was not seriously injured, and will be able to resume her studies in the morning. Dr. W. C. Smith of this city was called and reset the broken bone. The children were playing on the playground when the accident happened.

PROF. F. E. ROBBINS TO CONDUCT SCHOOL

Purdue Man Will be Assisted by Local Corn Men Saturday—Two Classes Arranged

URGED TO PROVIDE OWN CORN

The corn school which will be held in the county agent's office in the court house Saturday, will be conducted by Prof. F. E. Robbins of Purdue, who has been selected by the corn school committee. The school will be divided into two classes, one beginning at 1:30 in the afternoon and an evening class at 7:30.

Prof. Robbins will also be assisted at both meetings by a committee of local corn men who have had considerable experience in exhibiting at corn shows. A great deal of interest is being shown in the school and the coming corn show. It is expected that a large crowd of exhibitors will take advantage of the opportunity to attend the school here Saturday.

The committee urges those that care to, to bring in a few ears of corn of their own to work with, so that the exhibitor will have the advantage of learning how his corn and his idea of a good show ear conforms to the winning type of show ear. For those who do not bring their own corn, the committee will supply ears of corn to work with.

SAYS ARTICLE 10 IS ESSENCE OF LEAGUE

Issue is Whether "We Will Quit
or Make Good"

ISSUED TO A DELEGATION

(By United Press)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The issue facing the country is "whether we will quit or make good," President Wilson said today in an appeal for the league of nations issue.

The appeal was read to a deputation of 15 men and women, members of the republican party who are supporting the league of nations. The president met the league issue as becoming obscured in the present campaign and he stated that the country, "the whole moral force in the world" depends upon the United States rather than upon any other nation.

Every candidate, the president said, should be tested by the question, "whether he favors redeeming the great moral obligation of the United States."

The president held up Article 10 as the essence of the league, saying it "is the specific resumption of the pledge which the free governments of the world gave to their people when they started the war." President Wilson declared the so-called Americanism which we hear so much talk about is spurious and invented for party problems only.

Hamilton Holt and other members of the republican delegations said they were deeply touched by the physical appearance of the president who received them sitting in his chair.

HARDING STARTS FINAL TRIP TODAY

Republican Nominee Will Travel on Regular Train, Following Leisurely Schedule.

Harding Promptly Denies Colby
Statement Regarding His Spokesman Having Met Lenine.

(By United Press)

Marion, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Senator Warren G. Harding was to set out on his final campaign trip through Ohio shortly after noon today, arriving in Cleveland for an address tonight.

Harding will be on the road the remainder of the week, winding up his campaign with a speech at Columbus
Saturday night.

The nominee will travel on a regular train during his speaking tour, and as his leisurely schedule will permit, he will make as many rear-end speeches as possible.

Whether he can keep up the pace scheduled will depend on the cold which he has been suffering from.

The statement of Secretary Colby regarding an alleged spokesman claiming to have represented Senator Harding in a conference with Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik chief, came as an eleventh hour political development and was instantly denied by the nominee.

The league of nations, tariff protection, Americanism and constitutional government were expected to be headlines among the issues discussed by Senator Harding on his final campaign swing through Ohio.
In addition the Republican candidate will sum up for the voters of his own state the detailed platform which he has laid down during the campaign and on which he is asking for a national Republican victory at next week's election.

COX GETS BACK TO HIS OLD HOME TOWN

Speaks at Middletown Where He
Was a News Reporter and
High School Student

(By United Press)

Enroute with Governor Cox, Middletown, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Fighting for the league of nations, Gov. Cox came back to Middletown where about thirty years ago he was a news reporter and a high school student.

The democratic candidate was to spend the day in this district where he was born and has lived ever since.

Today he will speak in Dayton for the first time since he made his speech of acceptance August 7.

In his final campaign Cox is attacking Senator Harding more sharply than ever.

In his speech at Cincinnati today he made a statement concerning the death of Terence MacSwiney. "Mac-Swiney died as a martyr to his cause. Martyrdom don't simply grow. It is not created by the fleeting efforts of the hour. I believe that the martyrdom of MacSwiney will affect the European people as did the injustice of King George upon the American colonies during the revolutionary days."

services, but the attorney general has just ruled that township trustees are not entitled to receive extra pay for serving as election inspectors.

The state ballots were shipped here the other day from Indianapolis, and weighed 937 pounds. There were 16,300 ballots in the shipment. The county ballots have been printed and delivered to the county clerk by the Republican Printing Company of this city.

Election officials in Rush county will not be served with breakfast, despite the ruling of the state election commission to that effect. The law has not changed one whit, but the state commission announced that breakfasts should be served.

The township trustees have discussed the matter informally and have decided that it would be a waste of time and money for the county to pay for officials' breakfasts. They will get their dinner, supper and a midnight lunch, and if the count of votes has not been finished by the morning after election, the officials will get something to eat.

The announcement was made today for fear some officials might take it for granted that breakfast would be served and not eat before leaving home. They are expected to be at the polls by 5:30.

CORN HUSKERS ARE WANTED

County Agent Ball Has Many Applications For Men

D. D. Ball, county agent, today issued an appeal to the unemployed of this city and county, stating that he had ten or twelve applicants daily for men who had knowledge of corn shucking. The farmers in many places in the county are behind in corn shucking because of the shortage of help. Every day County Agent Ball has placed men on farms for that purpose, but the demand is greater than the number of men who can fill the places. Besides paying a good price for the work, the farmers in most instances supply board and lodging for the men whom they hire. Applicants should apply at once to Mr. Ball.

In Minnesota has almost ceased to exist.

"In Nebraska the Democratic organization is moribund. The Republican majority in that state will be unusually large, at least 50,000."

"In Iowa, Harding and Coolidge will win by well over 100,000. Senator Cummings will pull through, but he will run considerably behind the national ticket."

"In Wisconsin the certainty of an enormous majority for Harding has taken the life out of the national campaign. The governorship is on doubt."

"In Illinois the Harding and Coolidge majority is problematical. It may be around 250,000. I expect to see Mr. Small win over Colonel Lewis."

"In St. Louis an enormous Republican majority will be piled up. The state as a whole will go Republican by more than 40,000."

"North and South Dakota will show a vote about three to two in favor of Harding and Coolidge. The majorities will not be enormous, but they will be sure."

"The national Democratic ticket has been given up as hopeless and Mr. Cox is being traded off for state candidates."

DOUGHNUTS made the doughboy happy during the war and no wonder. There is nothing more wholesome and delightful than doughnuts or crullers rightly made. Their rich, golden color and appetizing aroma will create an appetite quicker than anything else in the world.

Here are the famous doughnut and cruller recipes from the New Royal Cook Book.

Doughnuts

3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten egg; stir in milk; add nutmeg, salt, flour and baking powder which have been sifted together and enough additional flour to make dough stiff enough to roll. Roll out on floured board to about ¼ inch thick; cut out. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 60 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Afternoon Tea Doughnuts

2 eggs
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg

Crullers

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Beat eggs until very light; add sugar, salt, nutmeg and melted shortening; add milk and flour and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Drop by teaspoons into deep hot fat and fry until brown. Drain well on unglazed paper and sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar.

Taggart Indicts Own Party

Tom Taggart's plea for election to the United States senate as a business man, wherein he indicted the democratic senate in which he served an unexpired term really was an indictment of his own party and the methods it employs when in power.

Taggart told of the inefficiency and waste of the democratic senate, but he did not explain how his election would correct it. His election might mean a democratic majority in the senate which would bring back the rule of the southern congressmen and senators which he himself deprecates.

There is no disguising the fact that when the democratic party is in power, either in the legislative or executive branch, the south is in the saddle and takes every advantage of its opportunity to benefit that section of the country with "pork barrel" legislation.

We saw innumerable examples of favoritism shown the south during the war when the executive branch of the government as well as the 65th congress was in complete control of the democrats.

Taggart urges his own election to the senate that he may correct the evil which he admits existed in a democratic senate and which is bound to reappear, for the very same reasons, if a democratic majority is restored to the senate. It is as certain as the rising of the sun every morning, that if democracy regains a majority in congress, that the south will be in control because the democratic party draws its chief strength from the south. It is ruled by the southern legislators and to imagine that Taggart's election will prove a boon to the citizens of Indiana is nothing short of humorous.

By the way, logic of his argument, one is forced to admit that he should be defeated for the very reason that his one vote might be enough to put the democrats in power in the senate, which would be a source of profound regret to the citizens of Indiana, if what Taggart had to say about the democratic senate in which he sat, is true.

Another Referendum

tions, he issued an address to the voters of the country begging them, if they desired to endorse him as their spokesman in foreign affairs, to return a democratic majority in both senate and house. The voters promptly returned a republican majority in both houses. President Wilson, assured that he would "accept your verdict without cavil," but he went to France and insisted that he had been authorized by the American people to bind them to the obligations of the league of nations.

On his return to America he declared that an overwhelming majority of the people demand the league, but he found it desirable to go on a speaking tour of the country in an effort to convince that overwhelming majority that they ought to be for the league. Since the democratic defeats in the 1918 elections, there have been many notable political victories for candidates who are avowed enemies of the league in the form in which Wilson proposed it, but even all this evidence of popular disapproval of his scheme of national surrender is not sufficient to convince him of the error of his ways. He wants one more referendum in November—and he will get it.

The fellow who thinks the world owes him a living is generally too lazy to collect.

If you find a button off your coat be gallant and tell your wife when she is busy. It will afford her an excuse for forgetting.

Reverses are depressing only to those who give in to them.

And still, a "no vote, no eat," law might help some.

There is still a little joy left to mankind. The oyster "stew" is not yet on the prohibition list.

Current Comment

(Indianapolis Star)

Mr. Warren T. McCray, who began his campaign for the office of Governor with a host of friends in the state, has steadily gained in favor as was expected. He is naturally especially strong with the farmers, who feel it to be time that they were represented in the Governor's chair by a practical, experienced and successful member of their own calling, one whose business is farming, not of the long-distance variety.

Mr. McCray understands agricultural interests in all their phases. The farmer's problems are his problems. He has studied them and solved many of them. He has learned the science of the soil by direct personal experiment and experience, but does not the less appreciate the teachings of agricultural schools, for he sends his son to Purdue that he may profit by the latest that science has to offer in the development of Indiana's greatest industry.

But while he represents farming interests as no other candidate for the office has done for many years, his opinions on the management of public affairs as set forth in his speeches have won the approval of business men. He believes for example, that the state's financial affairs should be handled on the budget system and says that if elected he will endeavor to carry out that plan. He promised to give all that is in him as a business man to the working out of the problems of the state for the benefit of the people. He hopes if elected, to see that school facilities are so improved that Indiana will no longer be the seventeenth state in educational rank.

Mr. McCray has commended himself to the people of the state as a representative farmer and citizen, one who understands the common public needs and will be able to meet them. The question that presents itself to the voters is whether their interests will be best served by a practical business man of his type or by a doctor, the most of whose year have been devoted to the study and practice of medicine and who was not known to take the smallest interest in politics until he decided to run for the highest office in the state. The question surely has but one answer—that McCray wins.

Watson of Indiana

(Washington Herald.)

Commonly we speak of Senator James E. Watson as an Indiana man, which he is. But in the larger sense, and properly, James E. Watson should be set down as a public man who belongs to the whole of the United States. His public activities have not been confined to the state of his birth, the political sub-division of the federal union, which has honored him and which he honors. There are few, if any, of the forty-eight states of the American union in which Mr. Watson has not appeared for the discussion of public questions. There is not a single republican state that has not frequently welcomed him as one of the chiefs of the standard-bearers of the Republican party—true, never failing, ever ready, willing and eager to carry forward the cause of republicanism as it is written down in the party's spoken principles and treasured in its cherished traditions. Whether it be under the inspiring sunshine of success when triumph is evident or in the gloomy days of temporary party obscurity, Jim Watson is always at the bat. He never falters nor shirks, hides nor compromises.

Watson, now serving his first term in the senate, will be returned. He should be returned to the senate. He is needed there. The Republican president who will be elected next month needs him there, as does the country and the State of Indiana.

Upon the re-election of James E. Watson may depend the political standing of the senate term which is to begin the fourth of March next. The impending senate term will have a close political division, at the best. The democratic solid south will elect senators from the state of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Virginia this year sure, and it is more than likely that the mildly debatable border states of Kentucky, Maryland and Missouri will do likewise, although the Republicans may have some chance in these last-named states. But even if the predicted republican landslide comes, the Republican majority in the senate inevitably will be narrow. For that specific reason, if for none other, it is of the greatest importance that Indiana shall send Watson back to Washington.

So far as Indiana is concerned individually, the argument that James E. Watson should be re-elected is irresistible. The prestige of the state in a republican national administration inexorably demands it, for Watson's presence in the highest law making body of the land will add immeasurably to the power, influence and character of Indiana. Another thing, too, that ought to give pause to all the sober voters of Indiana in their meditations over the November elections, Republicans and Democrats who believe in constitutional government as well: The opposition to James E. Watson is sinister. The special appeal against him is made to restless elements of the population that are not in harmony with the checks and balances imposed by the constitution for the protection of all the people, for the safeguarding of property rights as well as individual rights. When these active, unscrupulous and reckless Democratic politicians invoke class hatred as a means of discounting the Republican James E. Watson they are striking at the very heart of the fundamental features of the American government. When they bring their hirelings into this state posing as labor leaders trying to poison laboringmen against Watson, their real objective, their true target, is the Republican party, for James E. Watson's labor record is the labor record of the Republican party. When these men, politicians and paid spokesmen for the Democratic cabal that is seeking to hamper Warren G. Harding with an antagonistic senate, come into Indiana and offer Thomas Taggart to the laboringmen of Indiana as a substitute for James E. Watson they belie their own words, for they know that there is nothing in Taggart's past or present history, political or personal, to warrant a vote for him on the theory that he is a champion of or an especial friend of labor. It is not that these Democratic politicians want to elect Taggart. What they want is to defeat Watson—primarily because Watson will be the most conspicuous figure in a Republican senate, powerful, influential, useful, a tower of strength for the Republican party, as he will be a potent, fearless, and unabashed defender of the constitution. It is utterly out of the question to have any patience whatever with any person who is so lost to the equities and the imperative requirements of the political situation as to propose an argument for Warren G. Harding and against James E. Watson. Speaking for Daviess county, we do not believe there are any such persons in this community.

Center Farmers' Association Has Enjoyable Session at Mays

The Center Township Farmers' Association held their regular monthly meeting last night in the opera house at Mays, and the organization ran true to their former record of giving a splendid program. The entire affair was in the form of a Halloween party and the appropriate decorations were carried out in detail. A musical program was rendered and short talks were made by Fred Bell and Howard Ewbank. Donald

Bell, county agent, also spoke about the plans for the corn school and corn show that will be held here soon.

Following the evening's program, refreshments were served and a social time was indulged in by the members and guests.

GOITRE

Causing This Indianapolis Lady to Lose Hearing, Relieved by External Home Remedy

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Mrs. Emma Davis, 428 E. St. Clair St., says in her own home paper the Indianapolis Star: "My goitre, which was on both sides and middle began growing in 1900. It caused a choking sensation as I was losing my hearing. A Dayton, O., lady told me Sorbol Quadruple relieved her. One bottle has reduced my neck one inch and has given me much relief. You may use this letter as I want to aid all goitre sufferers, and I am glad in my heart for the relief I have had in one month."

Sorbol Quadruple comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Does not interfere with regular work. Leaves parts in healthful normal condition. Requires 10 minutes daily.

PREPARE FOR RECORD BREAKING ATTENDANCE

Expected 20,000 Fans Will View the Indiana-Northwestern Football Game at Indianapolis

TO BE PLAYED NEXT SATURDAY

(By United Press) Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—Indiana alumni of Indiana University are making extensive preparations for a record breaking attendance at the Indiana-Northwestern football game at Washington Park next Saturday. It is expected 20,000 fans will view the contest. Coach E. O. Stiehm and his assistants have outlined a program of strenuous training for the Cream and Crimson varsity candidates and when they meet the Purple and Gold Squad here the fans will see one of the most hotly contested games of the football season.

Stereuous practice and an entire new schedule of plays are the program features for the next two weeks practice. Coach Stiehm and his assistants are giving the Cream and Crimson players intensive training.

HARDING LEADS IN THE LITERARY DIGEST POLL

FAVORITE BY FOUR TO ONE

New York, Oct. 27.—Additional ballots cast last week in the Literary Digest presidential poll put Senator Harding further in the lead over Governor Cox. Harding's gain over Cox in the week's voting is approximately twenty-five percent. The figures this week are: Harding, 112,554; Cox, 31,790.

In the totals for the preceding week Harding led Cox by three to one, and the latest figures make Harding the favorite by four to one.

In Indiana Harding gained 907 votes for the week as compared to Cox's gain of 479. The vote is being taken in the six pivotal states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, New York and California. Harding has the lead in every state polled and his increases last week are greater in every instance than gains made by Cox.

Amusements

"The False Code," Mystic

The home of John Benton, with its little family of three, was a happy one. And then came the crash. Home, wife and daughter, business—even his good name—were swept away from him, an innocent, upright American business man.

Such a character is the ideal one Mrs. Kate Corbaley has created in her story, "The False Code," for that sterling character actor, Frank Keenan. This is the picture showing today at the Mystic Theatre.

Stepping blindly into a trap set by a business partner whereby all evidence in the mysterious sinking of a boat loaded with a fake cargo on which insurance is collected, John Benton, shipowner and brains and backbone of a shipbuilding concern, served twelve of the best years of his life behind prison walls.

When he came back his wife was dead and his baby daughter grown to beautiful young womanhood and very much in love with the son of one of the men who had conspired against him—one of the men to whom he had said, "As sure as there is a God in heaven, you will pay for this!" But vengeance was his, and, eventually, happiness for wronged.

Supporting Mr. Keenan is a cast including such sterling actors as Joseph J. Dowling, Clyde Benson, Edward J. Brady, Myles McCarthy, Jean Calhoun and Pell Trenton. "The False Code" is Frank Keenan's fourth independent production for Pathé.

THE ISSUES

The result of the coming election will not hinge upon the Wilson League of Nations. It will not and should not. The Wilson League with Article 10 can not be ratified whatever the result may be. At most it had but 29 votes in the last session, and with election of every new senator favorable to it, it would lack a constitutional majority in the next session.

The next senate will adopt some league, some association or some adaptation of the original idea. That it will not be a military alliance that will sacrifice any part of our sovereignty is certain. It WILL be an adjustment arrived at by the senate—just as all our governmental policies have been and as was the Constitution, and being such, it will be safe and healthful, and will be promptly signed by a Republican President. That action will be in the spirit of our representative government. Such an outcome we can not change or prevent, and should NOT.

The Questions We Must Determine by Our Votes Are—

- Are we willing to risk four more years of Democratic Mismanagement?
- Will we return to "Party Responsibility" or continue to depend upon the "One Man Rule?"
- Will we have the Democratic Party or the Republican Party solve the following problems during the next four years?
- THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.
- GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OR OPERATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.
- THE CONTROL OF AGGREGATIONS OF CAPITAL.
- THE MAINTENANCE OF WAGES BY THE CONTINUATION OF RENEWED PROSPERITY.
- THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF INDUSTRY.
- THE REVISION OF FEDERAL TAXES
- THE TARIFF.
- THE MERCHANT MARINE.
- THE RESTORATION IN ADMINISTRATIVE DEPARTMENTS OF SKILLED AND EXPERIENCED HEADS TO DISPLACE IMPRACTICAL IDEALISTS OR PARTISAN INCOMPETENTS.

The Failure of Democratic Statesmanship

The failure of Democratic statesmanship to meet these issues and solve them is notorious. In Washington today there is wastefulness and extravagance, inefficiency and carelessness, such as has never been seen there before. There is compromising with evil. There is greed. There is an army of needless employes working for party and not for country. There is, dealing with capital and dealing with labor—all putting off of a reckoning that threatens the most serious disaster. Most serious of all, there is a display of recklessness with the fundamentals of our government.

The Republican Party Promises

to meet this situation, to restore the Constitution, to accept the responsibility as a party, and to have again the departments of government functioning together in harmony and unity.

Mrs. Schockley Says She is Not Like Same Woman Since Taking Tan-lac

"For the first time in fifteen years I'm enjoying the best of health, and my neighbors are all talking about how well I'm looking", declared Mrs. F. A. Schockley, wife of a well-known engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, who lives at 2402 Oliver Street, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Fifteen years ago I began to be troubled with rheumatism in my joints and fingers. My appetite became so poor I didn't relish a thing I ate, and I suffered from headaches and dizziness constantly. My nerves were terribly upset, and at night I was so restless I could scarcely sleep. My feet and limbs swelled up so with rheumatism that they gave me no end of misery, and many times I was unable to do any of my housework at all.

"I saw where Tanlac was helping so many people that I started taking it, and although I've only taken two bottles now, I feel like an entirely different person. My appetite is so splendid that I just want to be eating all the time and I no longer suffer from headaches or dizziness. The rheumatism has entirely disappeared and I never have a pain of any kind. I'm not the least bit nervous and my sleep is sound and refreshing. I'm just feeling fine in every way, and my husband says he never saw such a wonderful change in so short a time in anyone as Tanlac has made in me. I have all the faith in the world in Tanlac and don't hesitate to recommend it when ever I have the opportunity".

Tanlac is sold in Rushville by F. B. Johnson Co., in Milroy by Dallas Copper, in Manilla by Geo. J. Inlow, in Arlington by Mrs. L. T. Davis, in Carthage by Otto C. McGarty, and in New Salem by Mrs. Jos. Hankins. R. R. 2—Adv.

The Band of Workers of the First Presbyterian church met this afternoon in the parlors of the church for their regular meeting. An appropriate program was given followed by a short business session.

The Willing Workers class of the St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Sam Young, 325 North Perkins street. Every member is invited to be present.

Mrs. Fred Bell was hostess for the members of the Sunshine Embroidery club this afternoon at her home northeast of the city. Needlework was the amusement for the afternoon and during the social hour at the close of the party a luncheon was served.

The Needlework Embroidery club of Raleigh was delightfully entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Sharp at her home northeast of Raleigh. The guests enjoyed the afternoon sewing and delicious refreshments were served at a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Addison and son Keith and daughter Pauline entertained the following guests Sunday: Mrs. Glenn Kaler and Mrs. Nora Kaler of Andersonville and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford J. Miller and son Fred of Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Ora Beckner and son William were guests in the evening.

About forty guests attended the thimble party given this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Johnson in West Second street with the Mrs. Johnson and Miss Sue Gregg as hostesses. The afternoon was enjoyed with an informal sewing party followed by the social hour, during which the hostesses served a delicious course luncheon.

The Ladies Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church held a very enjoyable meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lon Link in North Perkins street. Mrs. John Zeigle had charge of the devotional meeting and excellent talks were given by Mrs. John Boyd, Mrs.

Holmes and Mrs. Liddle. A large attendance was present for the meeting.

Mrs. John Thompson entertained the members of the Loyal Daughters class of the Main Street Christian church last evening at her home in East Seventh street. The eighteen guests present were masked and much enjoyments was had in guessing the identity of those present. Following the social hour the guests spent the remainder of the evening sewing for the Red Cross. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Forty ladies were graciously entertained this afternoon with a one o'clock luncheon and bridge party at the home of Mrs. Lee Endres in North Harrison street. The dining table, where the delicious four course luncheon was served, was gaily decorated with Halloween decorations and a large bouquet of yellow and white chrysanthemums centered the table. Following the repeat the guests enjoyed the remainder of the afternoon over the bridge tables.

Miss Marie Alsmann entertained Tuesday evening with an informal party at her home north of Arlington, honoring her 18th birthday. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. The evening was spent with music and party games. The guests were the Misses Nella Arnold, Mary Foster, Jean Carr, Opal Serapper, Mabel Lee, Nina Seward, Velma Ronan, Florence and Margaret Shaffer, Myrtle Alsmann, Marie Alsmann and Rhulan Overlees, John Alsmann, Lee Mitchell, Harry Hawk, Harlan Lee, Charles Alsmann, Frank Coon, Denning Nelson, Arnold Alsmann, Jake Ruby, George Offutt and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alsmann and daughter of Greensburg. At a late hour refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

THE RANGE BEAUTIFUL

The strikingly beautiful outlines of the Copper-Clad Range stops every woman. As she looks and admires, she finds that it is true beauty—the beauty of simple elegance and perfect proportions—of fine finish—the thoroughbred of the Range World.

Look for hinges on the above—only two on the oven door and they are long and smooth. There are six other doors yet not a hinge in sight, not a catch, nor hook nor latch. Built like fine automobiles, the hinges are all inside.

"COPPER-CLAD" MEANS

Pure Sheet Copper is placed BETWEEN the sweaty asbestos and range body. To place it elsewhere would be like climbing on top of a roof to get out of the wet.

IF YOU BUY A COPPER-CLAD RANGE THIS WEEK

"Free" means that this ware does not cost Copper-Clad buyers a single penny. It is a reward for buying while the Crank is here and is offered by him to justify you in attending this sale.

This ware is very substantial and just the kind that you would select if buying for your own use. The 7-in-1 convertible cooker takes the place of seven different vessels, as shown by figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7. You can use this utensil in some form every day.

Free to every Copper-Clad buyer during this sale.

COPPER-CLAD WEEK This Week, Oct. 25 to 30

No matter whether you want a range now or next year or any other time, it will pay you to come and see the Copper-Clad Crank make the Asbestos Sweat.

He takes any piece of Asbestos, puts it between two iron plates—heats it—and shows you the sweat. You can roll it up in drops, with your finger.

Every good range must be lined with asbestos to cage and hold the heat around the oven and

keep down fuel cost. Every time the range cools off, the asbestos takes moisture out of the fresh air circulating through the range like a blotter takes up water. When you fire up, this moisture is driven by the heat to the outside against the cold range body and starts Sweat-Rust on the inside where you can get at it even though you know it rusts. Sweat-Rust ruins thousand and thousands of otherwise good ranges every year. When the body is gone, the range is done for.

Copper never rusts. It may tarnish but it will last centuries. There are Copper Domes that have been defying the elements for hundreds of years. So, when we say a "Copper-Clad can't rust out," we mean that the copper lining overcomes all internal rust. Your greasy rag will keep outside free of rust—and there are no fussy ornaments full of rivets and bolts to skin your hands. The Copper-Clad wipes clean like a dish.

If these things are so—you should know it. Not by hearsay—but by the evidence of your own eyes. Remember, this Copper-Clad Crank is here to tell—to show—to explain. He delights in it. You won't "bother" him by asking questions. He has oodles of time to answer and he is here to "Show You."

Cox Asserts That America Will Meet Treaty Obligations

Paris, Oct. 27—America will honor all engagements of the peace treaty and will observe all obligations, Governor Cox told Maurice DeKobra, French newspaper man, according to an interview published here.

DeKobra, who was thought to be the official representative of France to approach Senator Harding on a new plan of an association of nations, quoted Cox as follows:

"Should Germany attack France, United States will send aid and observe all obligations of the treaty. We won't make a separate peace with Germany."

Obituary

Chester Winkler, son of Jefferson and Mary Winkler, died Tuesday morning, Sept. 28th, 1920 at the home of his father-in-law J. W. Poe. Death being due to heart trouble. He was born at Franklin Ind., Johnson Co., May 27th, 1881 making him 39 years 4 months and one day old.

He was married to Inez Poe Friday Sept. 4th 1920. Leaving to mourn his sad departure, his wife Mrs. Inez Winkler, his father Jefferson Winkler of Franklin Ind. Three sisters Mrs. Grace Winkler of Jackson township, Mrs. Myrtle Smith of near Raleigh Ind., and Miss Dora Winkler of this city. Also three brothers, Edgar Winkler north of town Harry Winkler of Franklin Ind., and William R. Winkler of Los Angeles Calif.

His mother with one sister and three brothers having preceded him in death.

His death was a great shock to his relatives and friends as he was only sick about thirty minutes. He died before the doctor reached him. He had a sunny cheerful disposition. Always looking on the bright side of life. He had a big heart, always sympathetic, and ready to share what he had and to do what ever he could for others. The early part of his life was spent in Franklin Ind. Then he came to Rush Co. having made his home with his sisters and brothers until he was married a short time ago.

He was a member of the Christian church at Sexton Ind.

Illustration Gives Good Idea of Construction of Implement Which Can Be Put Together at Small Cost —It Kills Weeds.

It sometimes happens that land gets very lumpy or full of clods and, to get the best results, these clods should be mashed or ground up. To do this a home-made clod crusher will be found to do the work in a most satisfactory manner.

The accompanying drawing shows how such a crusher can be made at home with but slight expense. It is made by taking two two-by-eight pieces eight feet long and spiking two by six pieces on the ends and also on top. To save a little expense a sled tongue can be used, and will answer just as well as to make one. A four by four piece is placed between the floats and is held in place by lag screws in each end. This piece should have teeth inserted into its lower side which are made from five-sixteenths inch round iron, and should stick out about two and one-half inches. Holes should be bored into the four by four, slightly smaller than the iron, and should slant backward. A lever can be bolted to this piece, which by moving front or back will press the teeth more or less into the soil. There could be a seat put onto it, but it is better to stand up, as by so doing, if any rubbish gets under it, a step forward will raise the hind end and let the obstruction out, says a writer in The Farmer. This machine is also a fine thing to go over a corn field just before the corn comes up and will kill more weeds than a drag.

His Joints Would Crack Like Whip

Muscles sore, joints painful, bowels bound up and liver sluggish. Dreco was quick to overcome these ails.

"I have suffered a long time from constipation, rheumatism in my muscles and at times my joints would crack like a whip; my entire system was rundown and needed building up," said Mr. N. Mitchell, a well known farmer of Route 2, Roanoke, Ind.

"I have just started on my second bottle of Dreco and it has done me worlds of good, the pain and stiffness has left my muscles and joints, my bowels are moving regular and easy once more, and my liver is active. I never saw any medicine do the work like Dreco."

When the wastes of the body are not eliminated regularly a poison accumulates in the system which is known as toxin, this goes through the blood and causes all sorts of trouble and distress. It is impossible for anyone to be well unless the different organs of the body perform their functions in the manner in which Nature intended.

The old fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs are the best for any one to take. Dreco is made from twelve different roots, herbs, barks and leaves. These act on the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys and purify the blood. Dreco knocks rheumatism out shortly relieves catarrh of the head and stomach, makes you sleep sound and creates a good appetite. As a blood purifier nothing can equal Dreco. It puts a stop to boils, eczema and other blood affections.

All druggists now sell Dreco and it is being especially introduced in Rushville by F. B. Johnson & Co.—Adv.

FARMERS MADE A COMPLAINT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27—Judge Linn Hay in Superior court Tuesday denied a petition of a group of Marion county taxpayers asking for a restraining order to enjoin the state tax board which horizontally increased property valuation.

The decision upheld the constitutionality of the Tuthill-Kiper law enacted by the recent special legislature to overcome the effects of the supreme court ruling invalidating the increases under the old law.

Judge Hay held that he was reasonably satisfied that the law does not warrant granting of an injunction.

Hay upheld the action of the state tax board in interpreting the position of the law.

"It seems to me that the intentions of the legislature was to provide a way for the taxing officials to aid the board of equalization and to equalize the assessed valuation of all property to all taxing units alike," the court said.

An adverse decision by the judge on the subsequent resolution by the supreme court would throw the state back into the state of turmoil that existed before the law was enacted.

U.S. SHOULD REMAIN SAFE

Stay Out of League Until Countries Agree, Harding Says

Marion, Ohio, Oct. 27—The only safe course for America is to remain outside the league of nations until a plan of an association of nations can be united upon so there will be no uncertainty or equivocation, Senator Warren G. Harding declared today, relating to the statement of M. Bourgeois (president of the league council).

Bourgeois stated that Article 10 was not a vital part of the covenant. This Senator Harding interpreted to mean that if Article 10 was eliminated, objections against it would be still provided in other sections of the covenant.

FIGURING CAPACITY OF SILO

In Estimating Diameter and Height Allow Each Cow Four to Five Square Feet of Surface.

If your cows are fed 40 pounds silage daily for six months they will need nearly 7,500 pounds or a silo capacity of four tons each. In estimating diameter and height, allow each cow four to five square feet of feeding surface in the silo. Ten cows would require a feeding surface of 50 feet. A silo eight feet in diameter would have a cross section or feeding surface of 50 square feet. For ten cows therefore, a silo should be eight feet in diameter. Fifteen cows should have a silo 10 feet in diameter (if 20 feet high it has a capacity of 20 tons and if 32 feet high, 51 tons); 20 cows should have a silo 12 feet in diameter. Forty cows will need a silo 18 or 18 feet in diameter and about 80 feet high.

TREATMENT OF ARMY WORMS

Pests Can Be Kept Out of Field by Plowing Up a Furrow in Front of Them.

After army worms once get into a field there is nothing practical which can be done to stop them. They can be kept out of a field, however, by plowing a deep furrow in front of them. Plow a furrow about eight inches deep and square up one side of the furrow with a spade. Every ten or fifteen feet in the furrow dig a shallow posthole. As fast as the army worms accumulate in the furrow, and especially in the postholes, sprinkle them with kerosene. Army worms move fast and it is necessary to apply this treatment promptly or they will have moved into the threatened field and there is nothing whatever which can be done. If the trench treatment is applied promptly it proves very satisfactory.

Unless Animals Are Being Conditioned for Market Pasture and Forage Are Sufficient.

If the ewes and lambs have good pasture and forage crops it will seldom pay to feed any grain feed, unless the lambs are being conditioned for the summer market. Pumpkins planted in the corn field make an ideal supplement for the fall pastures.

PLOWING GRASSLANDS DESTROYS MANY OF INJURIOUS CUTWORMS

Fig. 1—Variegated cutworm (Peridroma margaritaceus): a, Moth; b, normal form of caterpillar, side view; c, same in curved position; d, dark form, view of back; e, greatly enlarged egg; seen from side; f, egg mass on twig. (Howard.)

Prompt action is necessary for controlling cutworms after their presence has become noticeable in the spring. When the corn or other cereal has begun to sprout, which is the time the worms usually begin their depredations, delay in applying remedies may prove disastrous to the crop. It is usually too late to write to the department of agriculture for advice as to control measures and await a reply. The importance of recognizing these insects and knowing how to control them is therefore evident.

Cutworm injury almost invariably occurs in the spring, the plants usually being cut off at the surface or a little below the surface of the ground. As stated, this injury begins as soon as the first plants sprout and continues until late June or early July, when the worms have become full grown. Feeding takes place at night, the worms resting during the day beneath debris or in the soil at a depth of from one-half to one inch below the surface, and since they closely resemble the color of the soil in most cases the cause of the injury is often not apparent. If the soil surrounding the cut-off plant be examined carefully, however, the culprit will quite likely be found curled up in the soil as illustrated (Fig. 1, c).

Life History of Cutworms.

The various cutworms are known under a number of popular names, such as the grassy cutworm, greasy cutworm, variegated cutworm (Fig. 1), spotted cutworm (Fig. 2), etc., but the injuries caused by them are very similar and their habits in general are also much the same. The parents of cutworms are grayish or brownish moths, or "millers," which commonly occur at lights during summer evenings. Each moth may lay from 200 to 500 eggs, either in masses or singly, in fields covered with dense vegetation, and hence are to be found more often in cultivated fields which have been in grass or weeds the preceding fall. The eggs hatch in the fall, a few weeks after they are laid, usually during September, and the young cutworms, after feeding on grass and other vegetation, pass the winter as partly grown caterpillars. If such infested fields are left to grass no noticeable injury is likely to occur, but when it is broken up and planted to corn or other wide-row crops the worms, being suddenly placed on "short rations," often injure severely the newly planted crops, the nearly full-grown worms feeding greedily and consuming large amounts of food. In northern latitudes they attain full growth and stop feeding in late June or early July, and change to the pupal or resting stage. The injury often ceases so suddenly that farmers are at a loss to account for the fact.

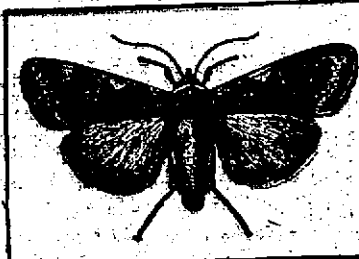

Fig. 2—Adult or Moth of the Spotted Cutworm.

In the western and northwestern states a distinct group of cutworms occurs, the individual members of which have been studied but slightly. Such studies have shown that some of them at least have life histories quite different from those of the cutworms of the eastern or more humid regions of the United States, as outlined above. These western cutworms have been known under the names of "army cutworms" or the "western army cutworms."

Cultural Methods.

Land to be planted to corn the following spring, especially such land as has been in grass for a considerable time and is likely to contain cutworms, should be plowed in midsummer, or early fall about the time the eggs are laid, or, better, before the eggs are laid, for then vegetation with its suitable food for the moths to lay their eggs upon is removed. The earlier the plowing, the less grasslands to be planted to corn are plowed the less will be the probability that the cutworm moths will have laid their eggs there, and the less, consequently, will be the danger of injury by cutworms the following year.

Late fall and winter plowing of grasslands, although not as effective as early plowing, will destroy many of the hibernating cutworms, as well as such other important pests as white grubs, and should be practiced when earlier plowing is impracticable.

Use of Hogs and Poultry.

Pasturing hogs upon land supposed to harbor cutworms is a beneficial practice, as these animals root up and devour insects of many kinds, including cutworms, in large numbers. Farm poultry, if trained to follow the plow, will prove of inestimable value.

Poisoned Baits.

When cutworms are found to be abundant on corn land the use of a poisoned bait is recommended. This may be prepared as follows:

Wheat branpounds	50
Paris green or crude arsenicpounds	2
Blackstrap molassesquarts	2
Waterquarts 4 to 6

or more as needed.

Mix thoroughly together in a dry state the poison and the bran, then add the diluted molasses and stir vigorously until thoroughly mixed.

Distribute this bait over the infested field broadcast, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around each hill. In case bran cannot be readily obtained middlings or alfalfa meal may be successfully substituted.

Where bran and other fillers for poisoned baits are prohibitively expensive or difficult to obtain in sufficient quantities, they may be diluted with equal parts of fresh hardwood sawdust. The formula for poisoned bait, prepared in this manner is as follows:

Paris green or white arsenicpounds	2
Fresh hardwood sawdustpounds	2
Wheat branpounds	2
Molassesquarts	2
Waterquarts 4 to 6

or more as needed.

This mixture is not quite so efficient as the poisoned bait containing the entire amount of bran, but it has shown good results and may be used to advantage when necessary. Fine sawdust should not be used, as this seems to repel the insects.

Where only a small quantity of poisoned bait is required the following formula will be found most convenient:

White arsenic or paris greenpound	1/2
Dry branpeck	1
Molassespint	1
Waterquarts 2 to 4

or more as needed.

It is often advantageous to allow the mash thus obtained to stand for several hours before using it, as this seems to result in greater effectiveness.

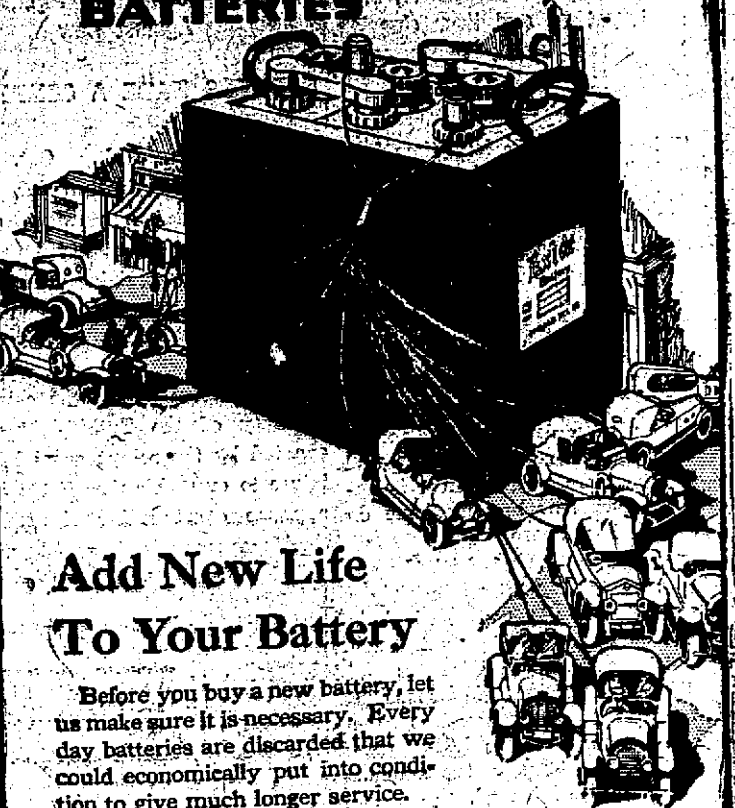

In fields known to be infested the distribution of this bait should be started as soon as the corn begins to appear above the ground, so that the cutworm may be eliminated as quickly as possible and the injured hills promptly replanted.

Caution.—Poisoned baits should be distributed thinly. Prevent domestic animals, including fowls, from eating it. Arsenic and paris green are poisonous to animals.

Protective Barriers and Trapping.

Frequently cutworms migrate to cultivated fields from adjoining grasslands, and in such cases the crops can be protected by running a narrow band of the poisoned bait around the edge of the field or along the side nearest the source of infestation. This form of infestation most frequently occurs in the semiarid states of the West and Northwest. Where cutworms occur in hordes moving together in one direction they may be trapped by the following method, which often is used in army-worm control: A furrow or ditch (Fig. 3) is plowed or dug completely around the infested area. In attempting to cross such ditches the worms fall into them and can easily be destroyed by cranking them with a log dragged back and forth through the ditch or furrow. If shallow post holes are sunk in the bottom of the ditch at intervals of about twenty feet the worms will crawl along the ditch bottoms and fall into the holes where they may be destroyed by cranking or other means. These shallow holes, such as nature has made, water penetrates in the holes, the post holes may be carefully filled with water, on the top of which a layer of crude oil or petroleum may be poured. Upon falling into such holes the worms are almost immediately asphyxiated without further action on the part of the farmer.

BEET PULLER IS LATE INVENTION

Pulling sugar beets is one of the big jobs which confront the grower of this very profitable crop. It is a lot of work, and work that takes time and energy at least, and often costs money as well. A man in the beet fields of California has designed a machine which he thinks is a wonder for doing this hard and expensive task. Instead of using inclined rods, on the principle of the gathering points of a corn binder, for pulling the beets, this man uses padded wheels for this purpose.

Cross Sectional View. The upright V-shaped portion of the accompanying illustration is a cross sectional view through the padded wheel pullers. The axles of these wheeled pullers extend down to the inner hubs of the main driving wheels of the machine, and are here driven or revolved by these main wheels. Grouters or diggers go along ahead of the pulling wheels, on each side of the row of beets, and loosen the ground around them so that they will be easier to pull when the pulling wheels of the machine engage them. From the drawing it will be noticed that the pulling wheels are set so the lower portions are much closer together than are the upper portions. As the machine passes forward over the beets in a row, these pulling

Beet Topper and Puller. wheels are rotated backward and upward, and in so rotating they lift beets out of the ground.

Cuts Off Leaves. So located between the pulling wheels that they pass just over the top of the beet are two knives, one on each side. Thus, as the machine is drawn forward and the beet is lifted up, these knives cut off the top or leaves of the beet; thus it is pulled and topped at one and the same time, by the one machine, these being two separate operations, in the ordinary hand method of harvesting beets.

Eruptions of the Skin Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the burning, itching that these diseases produce. Skin diseases are caused by an impurity or disorder in the blood, and there is no real and genuine relief within your reach until such impurities are removed. S.S.S. has given great satisfaction in the treatment of these disorders, because it is such a thoroughly satisfactory blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all impurities, and thus counteracts the effects of the germs that attack the skin. Begin taking S.S.S. today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical adviser will give you expert advice without charge. NEW PRICES ON SHOES

This store is offering some new Fall and Winter Shoes for men, women and children at reduced prices.

These Shoes were bought months ago when the price of leather was at its highest level. Leather prices are lower now, but this leather cannot be made into shoes much before the Spring 1921 season.

The new Fall Shoe prices anticipate the Spring reduction on shoes; they are six months ahead. In other words, you will buy your Fall and Winter Footwear, as you always do, at the rock bottom prices.

Doctor Pearl, formerly of the Maine experiment station, makes mention of the fact that among the high-producing hens there are two classes, one class having the ability to transmit their high laying qualities to their daughters and the other class being poor breeders. It simply amounts to the selection by means of the trap nest of the high layers. These in turn are mated to sons of high layers and the progeny of the mating is again tested as to egg production. It is agreed by the most careful observers that the male bird exerts a very important influence in the producing qualities of the offspring, and that a good hen mated to a poor male would likely give very indifferent results.

Quality is Influenced to Considerable Extent by Manner in Which They Are Dug.

The table quality of potatoes is influenced to a considerable extent by the way they are dug and stored.

Potatoes should be dug if possible, on a clear day, when the soil is not wet enough to cling to them, advises the college. They should be left in the field only long enough to become dry, then stored in a place which is cool and rather moist, and as dark as possible.

Under ordinary home storage conditions, because of the danger of decay, it is not wise to have the potatoes more than two and one-half or three feet deep, either in a pile or in a box, says an agricultural college potato man.

FLOOR OF PORTABLE HOUSES

It Should Be at Least One Foot From Ground, Open and Free—Cement Baffles Rats.

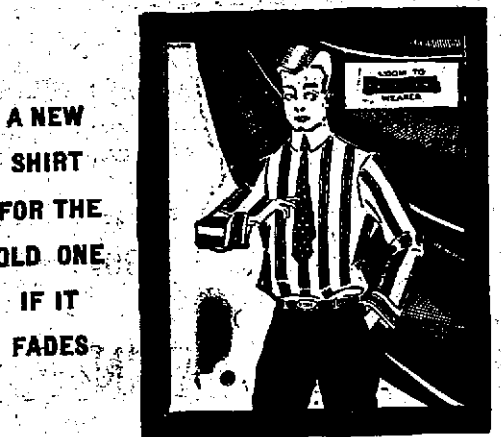

Floors of portable poultry colony houses should be at least one foot from the ground, and the space underneath should be open and free. Permanent brooder houses should have cement floors, and the doors and windows should be screened with one-inch mesh wire fencing. If such precautions are taken, rats and weasels usually do little damage.

Used by Experienced Shepherds in Changing Sheep From Old Pasture to New.
